$600,000 Appropriations Are in Danger of Veto; Legality Is Attacked

Constitutionality Questioned on Grounds Senate Amendments Are in Reality New Bills.

FUTURE LEGISLATURES WARNED BY EXECUTIVE

Veto Would Mean Loss of Greatly Needed Funds to Many of State's Leading Institutions.

Bills involving appropriations of approximately $600,000, passed by the legislature at the session which closed Wednesday night, probably will be vetoed by Governor Walker because of unconstitutionality of amendments, it was indicated Thursday. This action would affect the deficiency appropriation for the Georgia School of Technology, a large appropriation to the state sanitarium at Milledgeville, a deficiency appropriation to the University of Georgia, and badly needed appropriations to other schools and institutions.

Governor Walker stated that his only hesitancy in using his veto power is because he cannot kill the amendments without killing the entire bill. If he does affix his signature, he explained, it will be only because the appropriations set forth in the original bills are needed so badly. He stated definitely, however, that he never again will consider signing such measures, even in the event that he does on this occasion, an served warning to future legislatures to that effect.

Must Start in House.
Several reasons for the unconstitutionality of the bills were given. In the first place, the constitution states that all appropriations must originate in the house, and amendments to the senate making appropriations to institutions other than those named in the original house bill virtually constitute a new measure.

To be legally passed, an "aye" and "nay" roll call must be taken on every separate measure, and that was not done when the house concurred in senate amendments at the Wednesday night session. Furthermore, a majority of total number of members of the house must be obtained to make passage of appropriation bills lawful. As there are 206 members of the house, this would mean a bill must be favored by at least 104. As there were few more than that number present at the session when the amendments were concurred in, none of the bills received the required 104 votes, although each measure was passed by a majority of the house members present.

To Confer With Napier.
The governor has until Monday to act on the measures, and it is probable that he will confer with Attorney General George M. Napier, regarding constitutionality of the amendments before arriving at his final decision.

Vetoing of the amendments would mean nullification of practically all work done by appropriations committees of both the house and senate during the session, as only a small number of house bills were passed by the senate without amendment. On the other hand, senate amendments practically double the amount of appropriations as set forth in the original house bills.

Representative Culpender, of Fayetteville, chairman of the house appropriations committee, fought the plan of concurring in senate amendments without taking a roll call on every bill. He explained the unconstitutionality of the procedure, and made every effort possible to put the amendments to a legal vote. He was ably assisted by Representative Barrett, of Stevens.

Twenty Bills Affected.
While nearly 20 appropriations are affected, the largest, and therefore the most important, are deficiency appropriations to Georgia Tech and the

KILLS HIS WIFE, THREE CHILDREN, THEN SHOTS SELF

Fairview, Okla., August 14.—After killing his wife and three small children, Julius Burgraff, farmer, early today turned his gun on himself, inflicting a fatal wound. The tragedy occurred at the family home, 16 miles northeast of here. Neighbors believe financial troubles were responsible for the act.

The wife and children, the latter ranging in age from 11 months to eight years, apparently were shot while they slept. The youngest child was in its mother's arms. Burgraff's body was found nearby, a revolver of large calibre in his hand.

VIRTUALLY REACH RUHR AGREEMENT, AVERTING CRISIS

Germany Forced by Allied Pressure To Abandon Demand for Evacuation in Six Months.

BY CHARLES M. McCANN.
London, August 14.—An agreement on the military evacuation of the Ruhr has been virtually reached by French, Belgian and German negotiators, and the crisis which threatened to destroy the work of the reparations conference seems to have been avoided. Official agreement is expected Friday.

Allied pressure brought to bear against the German position swung Chancellor Marx and his colleagues away from their initial demand that the Ruhr be evacuated within six months. Premier Herriot had suggested that the evacuation take place one year after the signature of the Dawes plan protocol. Both men feared to concede too much lest they return home only to be forced from power.

Herriot Makes Concessions.
Herriot's original offer has been amended to include a promise of the immediate evacuation, upon the launching of the Dawes plan, of Karlsruhe, Port of Mannheim, Appenweier, Offenburg and other cities along the Frankfurt am Main-Basel Railway. Several smaller towns in the same area are to be evacuated on the same terms as the Germans and the French finally agreed Friday. These towns were evacuated merely for their strategic importance when French troops entered the Ruhr nineteen months ago.

A middle-ground understanding was reached relative to the Franco-Belgian railroad men now in the Ruhr. France and Belgium wanted to leave 5,000 of these workers in their new jobs. Herriot finally offered to withdraw all of them, with the understanding that if strikes or other disorders menaced the supply lines of the occupying troops the railroaders would be returned to the Ruhr.

Kellogg Backs French.
The allied decision to advise Germany to accept the French offer was reached at the morning meeting at No. 10 Downing street. The Germans were bitterly disappointed when they arrived and were told by Premier MacDonald that the allied chiefs had decided to back the French proposition. It was during this meeting that

PLEA OF INSANITY WILL BE ENTERED IN M'COY DEFENSE

Enough Evidence Collected To Convict Ex-Prize Fighter of Murder, As-sets District Attorney.

SISTER'S TESTIMONY TO JURY DAMAGING

Four Stories Are Told by Former Champion of How Rich Divorcee Came to Her Death.

BY H. O. THOMPSON.
Los Angeles, Calif., August 14.—"Kid" McCoy, whose craft and guile enabled him to win the welterweight championship of the world, is using all his former strategy to fight the hardest battle of his life—a battle in which his life is at stake.

District Attorney Keyes has announced that he has collected sufficient evidence to convict Selby of murdering Mrs. Theresa Mors, whose body was found in the apartment which she and Selby had occupied under the names of "Mr. and Mrs. N. Shields."

McCoy's indictment on a charge of murder will come next Tuesday, District Attorney Keyes said. All witnesses in the case, numbering some half dozen, will be called before the grand jury at that time, and it is on the strength of their declarations that the indictment will be handed down, he announced.

Just as "Kid" McCoy the battler sought to tie up his opponents in a series of fist-knocks, so Norman Selby, accused of murdering the woman whose "protector" he had become, has started a line of defense calculated to tie up the authorities in a maze of conflicting circumstances and statements.

Sister's Evidence Damaging.
Mrs. Jennie Thomas, Selby's sister, appeared before the grand jury Thursday afternoon and gave testimony damaging to him, according to District Attorney Asa Keyes. A statement issued by the district attorney after she had appeared before the grand jury twice said that Mrs. Thomas had testified that Selby came to her the morning Mrs. Mors' body was discovered in a highly nervous state and said:

"I think I killed Theresa. I have nothing more to live for."
At that time, Mrs. Thomas said, she did not know that Mrs. Mors was dead and it was not until later in the day that she was informed Mrs. Mors had been found shot to death, with knife wounds and numerous bruises on her body.

Selby now has told four different stories of how Mrs. Mors met her death.

Tells Four Stories.
First, he told police that he did not know how she died, and that her

Victim of Suicide Believed Insane As Result of Gas

Post-Mortem Discoloration Bares New Effect of Deadly War Weapon.

Post-mortem discolorations, which first appeared at the base of the brain, spreading slowly until it had covered virtually the entire face of H. H. Tyree, 27, of Hemphill avenue, who ended his life by taking poison, has presented a baffling case to local doctors and disclosed a new effect of war-time gas in causing insanity after contact.

Tyree, who died at Grady hospital Wednesday night, after drinking bi-chloride of mercury with suicidal intent on August 4, was an ex-serviceman who had been gassed and shell-shocked in France.

After telling several friends on the afternoon of August 4 that he intended to kill himself, he went to his home at 241 Hemphill avenue, and was met at the door by his wife. He then informed her of his intention to end his life and produced the vial of poison. She struggled desperately with her husband and tried to dissuade him from his purpose.

ALIENISTS ADMIT RAPID INSPECTION OF LEOPOLD, LOEB

Defense Scores as They Confess Conclusions of Youths' Sanity Were Hastily Arrived at.

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.
Chicago, August 14.—Two alienists for the state admitted under cross-examination today, in the hearing to determine punishment for Richard Loeb and Nathan Leopold, Jr., for kidnapping and killing Robert Franks, that their conclusions that the youths were sane were arrived at after brief conversations under unfavorable conditions and perfunctory physical examination.

Cross-examination of the two, Dr. Hugh T. Patrick and Dr. Archibald Church, Chicago psychiatrists, occupied virtually the entire day. Dr. Church's direct testimony taking only a few minutes.

The proceedings were enlivened by a heated three-cornered clash between Dr. Church, Clarence S. Darrow, chief of defense counsel, and Robert E. Crowe, state attorney, curtailed only when Judge John R. Caverly ordered a five-minute recess.

Denies Darrow's Imputation.
Dr. Church had asserted that he had been introduced to the youths as a doctor, and that the purpose of his visit was explained to them.

"You know that isn't true, Mr. Darrow," he replied heatedly, shaking his finger at the defense attorney. Mr. Crowe was on his feet shouting for the doctor to continue his reply, while at the same time Mr. Darrow uttered an apology and requested the question be stricken from the record as "an inadmissible." Judge Caverly added his calm voice to the uproar with an announcement of a recess, with Mr. Darrow and the prosecutor exchanging final verbal thrusts.

Forty minutes of questioning paved the way for the defense's first attack upon the conclusions of the state's mental pathologists. Conditions in the state's attorney's office, where Expressing the belief that every dollar spent to educate the children of Georgia is an investment in the state's greatest resource, the NuGrape company of America, through its president, A. E. Kelley, Thursday donated $1,000 to the Tallulah Falls Industrial school.

The gift brought the total subscription to the mountain school campaign to a high figure and added to the confidence of leaders that the $20,000 asked in Atlanta will be readily raised.

The NuGrape gift was obtained by the team of workers composed of Mrs. T. T. Stevens, president of the Atlanta Federation of Women's clubs and general chairman of the "Greater Tallulah" campaign; Mrs. B. M. Boykin and Mrs. Arthur Hazard.

"The Tallulah Falls school is doing a magnificent work," said Mr. Kelley, "and it is with real pleasure that the NuGrape company gives this subscription. We feel that every dollar that goes into the work of educating the boys and girls of our Georgia mountains will bring in tenfold its value in the years to come and that no greater opportunity lies before the people and the business firms of the state than the wholehearted support of such an institution."

The presentation of the check to the workers in the campaign was witnessed by K. K. Kelley, vice president of the company, and H. L. Todd, secretary-treasurer, in addition to the large group of women who attended. This gift of $1,000 followed the announcement of two other $1,000 gifts Thursday, one by Mrs. W. D. Ellis, Jr., and one by Rutherford Lipscomb, both of which were in memory of Mrs. Mary Ann Lipscomb, founder of the Tallulah Falls school. Another gift of $3,000 already has been made by Frank Lipscomb, of Athens, but his will be applied to the fund being raised outside Atlanta and will not go to the general fund being collected in Atlanta.

A feature of today's program in the drive will be the big "get-together" of workers and leaders in the town hall of the chamber of commerce at noon, when full reports on the progress of the drive are to be made. Several hundred women are to attend.

PROTEST OF G. A. R. AGAINST MEMORIAL NOT TO BE HEED

Washington, August 14.—Protests filed with the treasury department by members of the Grand Army of the Republic and similar organizations against the making of a special 50-cent piece to commemorate the beginning of the Stone Mountain Confederate memorial in Georgia will have no effect, it was announced today at the treasury department, in view of the specific instructions carried in the act of congress.

Designs for the coin already have been forwarded to the federal art commission for study. It has not been determined how many of the coins will be minted.

Identity of "Miss Atlanta" Will Be Revealed Sunday

JUDGES COMPLETE DECISION IN TOURNEY

"Miss Atlanta" is chosen—But until the Sunday issue of The Constitution rolls off the presses, the general public will not know her identity. The judges have completed their decision in the tournament, to send this city's most beautiful girl to the Atlantic City national beauty pageant early next month, but they are pledged to secrecy until Sunday.

Interest in the outcome of the tournament is keen throughout the city, and rumors are flying thick and fast. The telephone bells at The Constitution are working overtime, but to all requests for information the answer is returned that no announcement of "Miss Atlanta's" identity will be made until Sunday.

'FRAME-UP' CLAIM MADE BY SHERIFF IN LIQUOR PROBE

Elijah Tucker, of Lanier, Recently Relected on Dry Ticket, Is Charged With Conspiracy.

Following announcement Thursday by Fred Dismuke, federal prohibition director of Georgia, of the arrest of Sheriff Elijah Tucker, of Lanier county, on a charge of conspiracy in connection with alleged violations of the dry law in his territory, the sheriff issued a statement late at night from his home in Milltown, asserting that he has been made the victim of a frame-up.

He claims that he was approached by a federal agent who claimed to be suffering from loss of sleep and that he conducted him to a residence near Milltown, Ga., where a small amount of a "stimulant, believed to be moonshine," was given the visitor to relieve his sufferings. No charge was made, he stated. Tucker denies the charge of protecting liquor dealers made by the government and declares that he is confident of acquittal when his case comes to trial.

Dismuke Leads Raid.
The sheriff and Grover Boyette, a Lanier county farmer, who furnished the "medicine," were arrested in a raid led by Mr. Dismuke and were taken to Valdosta, where the two prisoners furnished $1,000 bond each. Arrests were made Tuesday but no announcement was given until the return of the federal prohibition director to his Atlanta office on Thursday afternoon.

Sheriff Tucker recently offered for reelection as sheriff of Lanier, running on a dry and law-enforcement platform.

German Security Investors Made Rich by Advance

Gilt Edge Bonds Skyrocket From Low Prices of Year Ago.

New York, August 14.—Imperial German government securities are making investors rich in the United States. A year ago they weren't worth much. Then came talk of a European settlement, followed by the experts' parleys in Paris and the present reparations conference in London.

The rise in general was ascribed to the recent favorable report on the Dawes plan for rehabilitating Germany. German 5 per cent war loan bonds could be bought at $5 per million-dollar bond a year ago. Thursday, brokers bought and sold the same bonds in this city for $1,750. Wednesday, the price was $1,000.

Three months ago, Prussian 3 1/2 per cent pre-war consols cost $400 a million marks. The price now is $4,000.

One year ago, Berlin 4 per cent bonds brought $500 a million marks. The price has gone to $12,000. Persons who bought City of Hamburg bonds a year ago can get $50 in cash for every $1 they paid out in the transaction by applying to any reputable broker who deals in securities.

Coolidge Asserts Economy, Honesty To Be Main Issues

7-YEAR-OLD BOY, STRUCK BY AUTO, DIES AT GRADY

Harry Gamadonis, Whose Car Fatally Injured George Hambrick, Is Being Held Without Bond.

VICTIM WAS PLAYING IN STREET WHEN HIT

Children Accompany Father to Jail and Play Outside His Cell Door at Police Station.

George Hambrick, 7-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Hambrick, of 31 Howell place, is dead, and Harry Gamadonis, 43, who operates a shoe shop at 30 Gordon street, is behind the bars at police station, being held without bond, as the result of an automobile accident at White and Ashby streets late Thursday afternoon.

Gamadonis stopped his machine instantly and rushed the victim to Grady hospital, where death came an hour after the accident. The boy's skull was crushed, doctors stated.

Was Playing in Street.
George had spent the day with his aunt, Mrs. J. P. Murphy, who lives on White street within a stone's throw of the scene of the accident. He was playing in the street with several friends, according to the story of several witnesses, who were questioned by Call Officers Walter A. Goode and Barney Covington.

Gamadonis, who is the father of four children, told the officers that he was about to enter Ashby street from White street when the little Hambrick youth ran suddenly in front of his car. "I locked both wheels of my machine with the brakes instantly, but was too close to the boy to stop in time," Gamadonis told the police.

In the car with the driver at the time were his four children—Jack, age 12; Gus, 10; Frances, 8; Ruth, 3, and their negro nurse, Leola Edmondson.

Doctor Called to Child.
Frances was overcome by the excitement and shock and had to be taken home where she was placed under the care of the family physician. The other three children, with the nurse, accompanied their father to the police station where they played.

COOLIDGE'S SPEECH RAPPED BY SHAVER

Democratic Chairman Calls It Best Justification for Democratic Issue of Honesty.

Chicago, August 14.—The speech of President Coolidge accepting the republican presidential nomination is "the best justification for the democratic issue of honesty in government," Clem L. Shaver, chairman of the democratic national committee, declared in a statement tonight.

Mr. Shaver called the president's speech "the most complete possible proof of the charge made by John W. Davis, democratic presidential nominee, of the complacency of the republican party and its candidate in the face of corruption."

"The speech of the president raises at once the question of whether or not the American people are capable of clear-headed thinking," Mr. Shaver's statement said. "We think they are. He evidently thinks they are not; no other conclusion seems possible when you consider his messages dealing with scandals of the last four years."

Can't Understand Reasoning.
"In effect, he says that there was no dishonesty because the republican administration inaugurated the budget system. Let me quote his words: 'In all my studies of political history, I cannot recall an administration which was desirous of a dishonest and corrupt government that for the purpose of checking extravagance ever undertook to introduce a budget system to cut down taxes, to purge the payrolls, to make enormous reductions in the public debt and to lay firmer foundations for the peace of the world. That is not the way of dishonesty.'"

Promise Made To Call Second Disarmament Conference as Soon as Dawes Plan Operative.

PLEDGES FOUR YEARS OF "COMMON SENSE"

Hughes Leads Three Cheers as President Enters Hall—Mondell Tenders Nomination.

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.
Washington, August 14.—In state Memorial Continental hall, President Coolidge tonight formally accepted his nomination as the presidential candidate of the republican party.

The nominee definitely opened his campaign with a recital of the accomplishments of the administration and a promise of "a government of common sense."

Honesty and economy in the government at home and peace abroad were set forth by the president to his audience of party leaders and the general public as principles on which he will seek election.

The intense heat of the past few weeks had given way to moderate, even cool temperature, and President Coolidge, dressed in a formal cutaway coat, was comfortably at ease as he delivered his address, which was punctuated by characteristic, short, pointed sentences.

Applauded Many Times.

The historic hall, scene of the armament limitation conference in 1921, and seating about 2,000 persons, was filled with applause several times as the president emphasized the major points of his address. Outside, another throng listened to the ceremonies carried out by amplifiers, while radio broadcasting instruments transmitted the proceedings to an invisible audience of countless numbers throughout the country.

Frank W. Mondell, as permanent chairman of the Cleveland convention, formally tendered Mr. Coolidge the nomination, the choice resulting, he said, from a demand of the people "freely and emphatically expressed."

"Under your leadership," Mr. Mondell declared, "we look forward to a continued opportunity for service to the honor of the republic and the progress and prosperity of its people."

Chairman Butler Presides.
William M. Butler, chairman of the republican national committee, presided at the simple exercises, which were opened by an invocation pronounced by Rev. Jason Noble Pierce, pastor of the First Congregational church, where President Coolidge worships in Washington. With them on the platform were the members of the notification committee, including a delegate from each state.

Members of the national committee, republican members of congress and governors of states occupied floor seats, with the public behind them and in the galleries.

After reviewing the accomplishments of the republican national administration, Mr. Coolidge, looking to the future, proposed further tax reduction, appointment of a committee to investigate and report to congress means of aiding agriculture, and another conference to consider further limitation of armaments.

Although his address was written

Atlanta Goes to Its First Revival!

Atlanta has seen hundreds of evangelistic revival meetings since the first in 1847. Yet none of these gatherings has proved more enthusiastic than that 1847 meeting in a warehouse here.

Conducting the meeting were Bishop Andrews, Dr. Means and several other prominent leaders of the time—starting Atlanta on a long road into the wonderful realms of religion.

In this work it is doubtful if any save the ministers of the gospel have been so zealous as The Atlanta Constitution in preaching the daily practice of the sublime philosophy of Jesus Christ. Surely no part of The Constitution's history has proved so important in the development of this paper into the daily guide that it has become for hundreds of thousands of loyal readers.

JAMES CAMPBELL, VETERAN OF WAR, DIES THURSDAY

James R. Campbell, proprietor of the Campbell Press, a job printing establishment, died late Thursday night at his home in the Boulevard Court apartments, Boulevard and Angier avenue, following a year's illness.

Mr. Campbell, who was 38 years old, had resided in Atlanta for the past ten years. Previous to opening his own establishment, he was associated with the Acme Press. He was a veteran of the world war, and a member of the American Legion.

He is survived by his widow, a brother, N. G. Campbell, of Rockford, Ill., and an uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Philip Campbell, of Tallahassee, Fla.

Funeral arrangements will be announced later by Atway & Lowndes.

PLEA OF INSANITY IN M'COY DEFENSE

husband, Albert, a New York business man, might have killed her.

Then he said he had killed her.

Later McCoy admitted that he was present when she died and told a long story about how she committed suicide in his presence and expired in his arms.

His final story was that he and Mrs. Mors, despondent because of troubles, had entered into a suicide pact; that she first shot herself, and that he did not remember what happened afterward as his mind became a blank.

Mrs. Mors recently had obtained an interlocutory decree of divorce, but that fact did not deter her husband from appearing at the district attorney's office Thursday to answer questions and demand that the person responsible for her death be prosecuted.

Mrs. Mors recently had sworn out a warrant charging that her former husband had threatened to kill her.

Husband Not Involved.

Mrs. Mors answered all questions that the district attorney asked him, and after the conference Keys said he was convinced Mors had no connection with the murder.

"I knew that nothing good would come of my wife's relationship with McCoy," Mors said. "I protested to her many times."

That McCoy story that Theresa committed suicide is a lie. She and I were very friendly when we last saw each other, and I could not have been the cause of her death."

Keys said he intended to use Mors as a witness against Selby.

Selby, after telling his conflicting stories, retained H. D. Knickerbocker as his counsel and one of the attorney's first announcements was that the fighter would plead insanity, if he were brought to trial.

There is every indication that Selby was not mentally responsible when he went on that shooting rampage, Knickerbocker was quoted as saying.

Declines to Tell More.

Selby, after consulting his attorney, declined to talk further to the authorities about the case. The only question he would answer was one about his age. He told the district attorney he was 51 years old.

"Selby will be indicted for the murder of Mrs. Mors," Keys declared after an unsatisfactory interview with him. "We have enough evidence for a conviction."

A coroner's inquest will be held over the body of Mrs. Mors Friday. Police investigators have declared that the position in which the body was found, the location of the bullet wound which caused her death, and signs of a beating, evidenced by her discolored flesh, will conclusively disprove Selby's assertion that the woman killed herself.

That Selby was in an ugly mood early Wednesday morning, even before he engaged in the antique shop shooting affray which resulted in the wounding of three persons, is established by the statement of Hollywood police.

Hunted for Policeman.

Selby went to the station there at 3 a. m. Wednesday in search of the officer who had intervened in one of the quarrels he had with Mors in the presence of Mrs. Mors.

"Where's Officer Pussenger?" Selby asked the desk sergeant.

"Not working tonight," the officer replied.

"Look for him," Selby is said to have muttered.

"Why?" the sergeant asked.

"Read the papers tomorrow," McCoy responded as he left the station.

Selby appeared to be drunk at the time, officers at the station declared.

A. D. Griffin, a patrolman, realized Selby was in no condition to drive his automobile and bundled him into the car, taking the wheel himself.

Arriving at the Nottingham apartments, where Mrs. Mors and Selby had lived together, Griffin assisted him up the stairs to his apartment and offered to help the ex-pugilist undress.

As he stepped from the bedroom into the living room, Griffin stumbled over a pile of bedclothes.

Under that disordered heap lay Mrs. Mors.

But Griffin, thinking the confusion had been caused by Selby in a drunken orgy, paid little attention to the circumstance until he learned of the murder the next day.

When Selby saw Griffin in the living room, he roughly ordered him out of the house, pushing him from the room, Griffin said.

Then the statement of Selby's mother, Mrs. E. Selby, indicated that he visited her early Wednesday morning, some hours after the killing.

"I heard his voice outside my bedroom window about 2 o'clock yesterday morning," Mrs. Selby said. "I knew his voice and thought he must be in trouble. He always turns to me for comfort."

She rallied gallantly to his defense, saying, "I know he could not have killed her, for he loved her too well. He has told me by much he cared for Mrs. Mors and I know they were planning to be married."

"Last night he just said 'how's mother' and left without a word more of his trouble."

McCoy's last battle not upon books.

Los Angeles, August 14.—"Kid" McCoy's last battle is not in the record books. It was a k. o. victory in which McCoy conquered a well-known Hollywood bootlegger with a single punch at the Hollywood American Legion fight stadium less than a year ago. A customer was purchasing a ticket when McCoy, pushing roughly through the crowd, whirled him around with a powerful grip upon his shoulder.

"I've been laying for you, you—"

McCoy cried. "You thought you were pretty smart stinging me on that last batch of liquor. Take that and don't try to sell any one else your poisoned junk."

A terrific left hook to the chin brought the victim of the kid's wrath to the ground. McCoy turned away, satisfied.

SHIFTING OF WIND SAVES SMALL TOWN FROM BEING BURNED

Winchester, Va., August 14.—Only the sudden shifting of a strong wind saved the little town of Boyce, in Clarke county, from being wiped out by fire.

Already the flames had destroyed the general store and two warehouses and damaged a drug store and several residences demanding many lives.

Firemen from Winchester, who had answered a call for aid had pumped dry the town cisterns and wells.

The flames were blown out into an open field and the town was saved.

Kellogg threw his full weight against the Germans. Despite the denials of the French, the investigation represented in the conference was understood that Kellogg definitely sided with the French.

Then the Belgians and French went into a three-cornered conference which ended without progress after each opposing leader had made a speech.

At the conference, Kellogg and MacDonald and Marx failed to get anything done. The investigation conference met again. It was following this meeting that Herriot offered to evacuate several German towns upon the condition that the evacuation be necessary.

The Germans had planned to send one of their number to Berlin to consult the party leaders in the reichstag.

But Herriot's offer made such a move unnecessary.

A telephone message from the German quarters in the Ritz hotel to No. 10 Downing street late Thursday promised that a reply to Herriot's offer would be ready for the allies' consideration Friday.

EDITORIAL COMMENT IN BERLIN VEHEMENT

Berlin, August 14.—The editorial comment here, regardless of its partisan allegiance, indicates almost unhesitatingly in favor of the evacuation of the Ruhr which will fall to measure up to German popular expectations, both of fact in the evacuation of the Daves plan as reflected in its letter and spirit.

While the comment of some of the more moderate newspapers apparently is reconciled to the realization that the French would not show undue haste in withdrawing the present armed forces from the Ruhr, it nevertheless assumes that delay in evacuation beyond the beginning of next January would be intolerable.

As the majority of the reichstag leaders are away from Berlin, competent political opinion on the success achieved by the German delegation in London must be deferred, as must also all predictions regarding the fate of the Marx-Stresemann government.

GERMANS DISAPPOINTED

It was evident that the Germans were severely disappointed at the sudden allied support of the French proposal.

"We must accept, as we have no other alternative," said a German who is in a position to speak authoritatively relative to the probable course of his delegation's proceedings.

"Is this what the new era of political relations means?" another German asked. "We started to negotiate. Then, when the vital Ruhr question came up, we were told to sign."

If agreement is reached relative to the Ruhr, the levitating of the protocols embodying the work of the entire conference may be completed late Friday or the first thing Saturday.

The various protocols will be initiated while a separate agreement will be entered into binding all the seven powers to send representatives to London to sign at a later date.

Herriot insists that the chamber of deputies be permitted to ratify the protocols before he signs a formal and binding document.

ed outside of his cell door, trying to comfort him.

Always fond of children, Gama-danis collapsed and fell to the concrete floor of his cell when told that the victim of his machine had died. He then began sobbing aloud and his attorney, M. Herzberg, was unable to restrain him.

Captain Grover C. Fain, in charge of the evening watch, is personally directing the investigation into the accident. Until this is completed, no bond will be allowed the driver, Captain Fain stated.

In addition to his parents, the Hambrick Jr., two sisters, Stella and Adele Hambrick, and grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Hambrick, 48, were present.

Funeral services will be held from St. Anthony's church, time to be announced later by the T. C. Bazemore company.

Three Negroes Hurt

Major George, negro, his wife, Mattie George, and a daughter, Annie Lois George, were hurt Thursday night when the automobile in which they were riding, and which was driven by George, crashed head-on into a street car on DeKalb avenue at Hull street.

Both women were seriously injured, and all three victims were treated at Grady hospital. The accident was investigated by Call Officers Cheevers and Duneen.

Twenty traffic cases were tried in police court Thursday. 13 drivers being fined a total of $138, while seven cases were dismissed. Ten were fined for violating traffic ordinances, 12 with speeding, nine with reckless driving, six with violating the dimmer ordinance, and with operating an automobile while intoxicated.

Those fined Thursday in recorder's court were:

Prepare for Camp

Waycross, Ga., August 14.—(Special.)—Troop No. 3, Boy Scouts of America, here, are holding final inspections preparatory to leaving for Camp Stanton on the Willacochee river near Quitman. The medical inspection will be held Friday evening by Dr. George N. MacDonald.

The uniform and equipment inspection will be held Saturday evening by Scoutmaster C. N. Wilson. Steele Miller has been named assistant scoutmaster of the troop.

The individual paper comb has appeared for public place, such as hotels and barber shops.

DAVIS SPEEDS UP CAMPAIGN PLANS

Locust Valley, N. Y., August 14.—John W. Davis, democratic candidate for president, began speeding up today the preparation of his plans to argue his case before the country.

Moving his personal headquarters to his home here, at least for the day, he started work on the address he is to deliver at Columbus, Ohio, on August 26, and conferred with several of his advisers concerning both the itinerary of his far western tour and general organization plans.

After devoting the morning to the subject matter of his Ohio address, Mr. Davis conferred with Senator Key Pittman, of Nevada, and Norman H. Davis, assistant secretary of state in the Wilson administration, regarding his speaking itinerary and the subject matter of some of his addresses.

While there was no announcement as to dates and speaking places in the west, it was made clear that the democratic nominee intends to conduct an aggressive campaign in a number of states in that section.

At the conference with Senator Pittman, the democratic standard-bearer discussed organization and campaign financing with Jesse H. Jones, of Houston, Texas, chairman of the finance committee of the democratic national organization.

Tomorrow, Mr. Davis will go to New York to confer with leaders there. It is his present plan to spend much of his time during the next week at his home here in preparing the bulk of his Columbus address, and he is to deliver at Sea Girt, N. J., on August 22.

DIXON APPOINTED WESTERN MANAGER

Chicago, August 14.—Former Congressman Lincoln Dixon, of North Vernon, Ind., today was appointed to take charge of the newly opened western democratic headquarters here, after a conference of C. L. Shaver, chairman of the democratic national committee, with a number of western party leaders.

Mrs. Emily Newell Blair, national committeewoman from Missouri, was selected to head the women's branch of the new western headquarters.

A few others will be named from time to time as assistants in the western campaign, but Mr. Dixon will remain in charge of the organization activities and the speaking campaign.

"Mr. Dixon is one of the best organizers in the democratic party," said Mr. Shaver, "and his appointment means that the campaign will be waged most vigorously in the middle west."

A bureau may be opened later in the west, probably on the Pacific coast, Mr. Shaver said, depending on the development of organization activities at the Chicago headquarters.

No western speaking tours have been arranged yet, Mr. Shaver said, but several dates will be announced after the chairman returns from the conference with Chairman Shaver on western plans. Among them were: Charles Greathouse, of Indianapolis, secretary of the national committee; Joel T. Davis, of St. Louis, and Mrs. Emily Newell Blair, Missouri committeewoman; Mrs. Madge O'Neill, Iowa committeewoman, and Senator McKellar, of Tennessee.

QUIZ ANN LUTHER TO LAY BASIS FOR MANN ACT CHARGE

Los Angeles, August 14.—An investigation of the relations of Ann Luther, actress, and Jack F. White, wealthy mining man, which will extend from New York to Los Angeles, with a view to seeking basis for Mann act proceedings against the pair, was launched today, according to a announcement by Lucien C. Wheeler, agent here of the department of justice, and United States Attorney Joe Burke.

The announcement followed a lengthy examination of the actress by two federal officials, in which, they stated, she reiterated her testimony given in her $100,000 breach of contract suit against the mining man. The suit was thrown out of court here yesterday.

The evidence in question related to a journey said to have been made by the actress and White from New York to the Pacific coast. The federal investigation will extend to many of the principal points along the railroad line.

STATE TREASURER, SHORT AS CASHIER, WILL RESIGN JOB

Putnam, Conn., August 14.—(By the Associated Press.)—The resignation of G. Harold Gilpatrick as state treasurer has been decided upon following the disclosure of the loss of at least $262,000 to the First National Bank of Putnam by reason of his acts as cashier of the institution. It was learned here today. At the same time, Governor Charles A. Templeton announced he would immediately order a complete independent audit of the state accounts handled by Mr. Gilpatrick.

The resignation of Mr. Gilpatrick has been prepared by his brother, G. Walter Gilpatrick, a New York attorney, who has been in the city for the past two days and in frequent consultation with the state treasurer, now a patient at a local hospital as a result of his attempt at suicide last week.

Members of the family would not indicate whether the resignation had been requested by the governor or was voluntary.

MAN WHO BRAVED OCEAN IN DORY BELIEVED DEAD

Manila, August 14.—(By the Associated Press.)—It is believed that Ira Sparks, of Peru, Indiana, who sailed from Honolulu in January for the Holy Land in a 23-foot dory, perished off the coast of Zamboanga. A deserted boat named "Dauntless, Honolulu," was found stranded on Gattusan Island on the eastern coast of Zamboanga, according to a telegram received by consular headquarters. There was no trace of Sparks.

Sparks arrived in Honolulu from San Francisco in a packing box last year. On his departure in the dory he announced that he was bound for the Holy Land to "seek the true word of God."

Huntsville Politics

Huntsville, Ala., August 14.—(Special.)—Municipal politics are further enlivened by the appearance of a second ticket containing names of candidates for all the offices to be filled in the September election.

The new ticket is headed by Mayor Fraser L. Adams, who is seeking reelection. Alderman Alex McAllister is a candidate for the presidency of the council.

STEELE QUILTS RACE AGAINST W. D. UPSHAW

Declaring that pressing business matters would prevent him from taking an active part in the campaign, J. J. Steele, of Decatur, Thursday announced his withdrawal as a candidate for congress from the Fifth district. Mr. Steele's decision to withdraw leaves two candidates, Representative W. D. Upshaw being opposed by Max Wilensky, of Atlanta.

"Considerable business has accumulated in my office during the session of legislature which demands my attention, some of which cannot be postponed until after the election," Mr. Steele said in a letter announcing his withdrawal. "I have not the time nor the physical strength to give the business attention and at the same time conduct a campaign for congress. Realizing this situation I have for some time had under consideration the matter of withdrawing from the race. Not being in a position to make an active and aggressive campaign, I have decided to do so."

HANCOCK REGISTRARS PREPARE VOTERS' LISTS

Sparta, Ga., August 14.—(Special.)—Hancock county registrars are busy here this week arranging the voters' lists for the primary to be held September 10. The work is under the supervision of E. G. Latimer, who has been chairman of the board of registrars for several years. The work will be completed during the next two weeks.

(Good-Bye (Toni) Rosa Ponselle 6453 $2.00
Serenade (Toni) Rosa Ponselle

Two Tosti songs in English—the immortal "Good-Bye" and the dainty Serenade. And how Ponselle does sing them! To hear these records is to know why she is a Victor artist.

(Spanish Dance (Sarasate) Fritz Kreisler 6451 2.00
Humoresque (Ysaac Bowe) Fritz Kreisler

The first records of display character this sterling artist has made for some time. A bewitchingly beautiful Sarasate dance and a madly capricious Humoresque by a living English composer. Records you will want to hear and own.

(Love is Mine (Teichmayer-Carter) Richard Crooks 45422 1.00
(For You Alone (O'Reilly-Crooks) Richard Crooks

Love-songs of intense beauty. Whether or not you have had the experience—the exaltation, the transfiguration, the pain—these tenor records will thrill you.

(Devotion (Herbert) Victor Herbert's Orchestra 55223 1.50
Sweethearts—Selection (Herbert) Victor Herbert's Orchestra

"On Parade"—"Angels"—"Pretty as a Picture"—"Crickets on the Heath"—"Jeannette's Wooden Shoe"—"Sweethearts"

His own "Devotion" was the last work ever conducted for us by Victor Herbert, and this record is the last we ever can issue from his own hand. It is fitting to the occasion.

(Hinky Dinky Parlay Voo Billy Murray—Ed Smalle 19388 .75
We Don't Get Much Money, But We Have a Lot of Fun Billy Murray—Ed Smalle

Comic hits—one of them filled with war-time reminiscence, and the other a play on juvenile pastimes and popular songs. Delightful records—plenty of swing and go, and full of humor.

(Broom Dance (2) Bummel Schottische Victor Band 19348 .75 (Gossiping Ulla (2) On the Bridge of Avignon Victor Band

Records of old-world dances, issued for educational purposes. Splendid numbers for the community celebration, or the family hour.

(Walla-Walla—Fox Trot Paul Whiteman and His Orchestra 19389 .75
Dixie's Favorite Song—Fox Trot

Whiteman fox trots in comic style. The first has amusing echoes, for various instruments, of an amusing vocal refrain; the second is brilliant but amusing, too. No matter how many Whiteman records you have, you'll also want this one.

(Pickin' 'Em Up and Layin' 'Em Down The Benson Orchestra of Chicago 19386 .75
—Fox Trot

The Doodle-um Blues—Fox Trot
Finely melodious fox trots—splendid hot-weather numbers that will last you through the winter. Easily danced to, and lasting in appeal. Records you will want to keep handy.

(Rock-a-Bye My Baby Blues—Waltz The Troubadours 19387 .75
Tears of Happiness—Waltz The Benson Orchestra of Chicago

The first number is an excellent waltz in the popular manner, with a yodel refrain based on "Emmett's Lullaby"; the other has developed melodies with plenty of strings. Records that adequately fulfill every wish of the dancer.

GERMANS NOT ANXIOUS ABOUT JOINING LEAGUE

Williamstown, Mass., August 14.—Germans are not eager to join the league of nations, Dr. Moritz J. Bonn, financial adviser to the government at Berlin, declared at an open discussion of the league today at the Institute of Politics.

"The league is an instrument of inquiry to many Germans," Dr. Bonn said in reply to a question as to when his country would join the organization. Explaining to his audience, which comprised almost the entire membership of the institute, that he had always been an advocate of the league, the speaker asserted that it was useless to try to convince Germany of the justice of the partition of Upper Silesia.

In addition, he asserted, the people consider the Treaty of Versailles radically opposed to the terms of the armistice, which, he said, they consider sacred.

"The treaty contains the statement that Germany alone is responsible for the war," Dr. Bonn said, "and the people fear that for them to join the league might be considered a voluntary acknowledgment of their guilt. "The German people are not greatly elated at the prospect of being treated in the league as the equal of states like Italy and Hojias; and, in addition, they are by no means certain that it would be worth their while to join the league, even on terms of equality, when neither the United States nor Russia are members."

Trade unionism and the German working classes were the instruments by which democracy was saved and soviet rule averted, according to Dr. Bonn, who appeared before the institute in a later lecture.

MAURETANIA SMASHES RECORD BY SIX HOURS

New York, August 14.—All records for the Cherbourg-New York passage were shattered by the Mauretania's arrival at quarantine late this afternoon. Her time for crossing was five days, three hours and 20 minutes. Her best day's run was 642 miles and her average speed was 25.60 knots per hour.

The best previous time made by the same steamship in August, 1922, was five days nine hours 20 minutes.

Planes Groomed For Weevil Fight On Georgia Soil

Athens, Ga., August 14.—(Special.) Athens and Clarke county are making preparations for the biggest anti-boll weevil demonstration in the history of the pest's activities in the southwest on August 26, when a demonstration will be staged here showing how the pest may be fought with airplanes, which will dust 600 acres per hour at higher efficiency and lower cost than methods now in operation.

Athens was formally awarded the demonstration Thursday, when the central committee accepted the invitation of the State College of Agriculture, the chamber of commerce and the Rotary and Kiwanis clubs of this city.

Notables to Attend. The demonstration will bring to Athens the governors of several southern states, including Governor Walker, Senators William J. Harris and Walter E. George, of Georgia; many congressmen and leaders in agriculture as well as prominent business men from all the cotton-growing states of the south. Visitors will include the assistant secretary of agriculture of the government and Dr. R. B. Coad, director of the boll weevil control station at Tallahassee, La., and one of the best-known experts on the pest in the country. Dr. Coad will deliver the main address of the day here and this address will be broadcast by radio to all sections of the south. Dr. Coad will be introduced by Dr. J. Phil Campbell, of the University of Georgia. More than 10,000 visitors are expected.

The Ascherhoff-Wilkinson company is furnishing all calcium arsenate to be used for the demonstration free. The Standard Oil company, of Kentucky, has donated and shipped direct to Athens five barrels of aerial spraying and supply of kerosene oil. R. E. Hodgson, Atlanta manager, made the oil company's announcement today.

The White Provision company, of Atlanta, will donate meat, the American Bakeries company will donate their celebrated Merita bread and the Block company will furnish cakes and crackers at the barbecue in honor of the visitors.

Committees Named. In addition to the government and the State College of Agriculture, the A. B. & A. railroad and a number of business houses are cooperating in the demonstration. A mass meeting will be held here tomorrow night by Clarke county citizens to work out details of the big meeting.

Committees already active are those from the chamber of commerce, Rotary and Kiwanis clubs and a publicity committee. This committee is composed of the following: Joel A. Wier, H. H. Gordon, H. W. White, Howard Scott, W. B. Hodgson, J. W. Farris, M. J. Costa, Howard Benson, Harry Hodgson, C. W. Crook, E. H. Dorsey, Van Noy Wier, J. G. Oliver. Publicity committee, Charles E. Martin, Dan H. Magill and Charles Summerour.

A letter from Brooks Morgan, president of the Frank Block company, of Atlanta, who was unable to attend the meeting today, was read. He stated that his firm would consider it a privilege to provide some of the refreshments for the big barbecue. He further said that the status of the cotton market was reflected in the business of his company.

PLANES TO DUST PECAN ORCHARDS. Griffin, Ga., August 14.—(Special.) One of the big planes of the Athens boll weevil experiment tests will visit pecan orchards in Tift county, it was announced here today, following a request for the pecan dusting experiment by members of the Georgia Pecan Growers' association.

Gas experiments in the extermination of the boll weevil will be carried on by experts of the army chemical corps at the experiment station here. The dusting of the pecan trees is expected to prove the economy of providing "community dusters" in the form of planes for pecan orchards, members of the association said tonight.

U. S. ARMY CHIEFS PREPARE EXPERIMENTS. Washington, August 14.—Officials of the army's chemical warfare service will be sent immediately to Griffin, Ga., to make experiments with a view to eradicating the boll weevil, Senator Harris, democrat, Georgia, announced here today. The agricultural department will also conduct experiments for this purpose, starting next week at the state college at Athens, Ga., he added.

In a formal statement, the Georgia senator said: "I conferred today with General Amos Fries, chief of the chemical warfare service, who returned from Georgia last night, after visiting the officials of the Georgia experiment station relative to the experiments to be made by the chemical warfare service in the use of poison gas for killing the boll weevil. General Fries decided it was an ideal location in the center of the cotton belt and believed that he could accomplish something by the use of poison gas in getting rid of the boll weevil. The gas is more powerful than anything so far used against the boll weevil. General Fries will send the officials down right away to make experiments with the poison gas at Griffin, Ga."

Experiments by the agricultural department will be made next week at the state college at Athens, against the boll weevil, and are possible from a separate appropriation," the Georgia senator pointed out.

ALABAMA PLANTERS FEAR COTTON PEST

Huntsville, Ala., August 14.—(Special.) Cotton planters in Madison county are being urged to report immediately to the farm bureau if they find any trace of the cotton caterpillar in their field. This insect, more than the boll weevil, is widely feared production of cotton in this region last year.

The worm has been reported in Marshall county in fields near Gunterville and it is anticipated that it will be a short time only before the plowing caterpillar or moth is blown across the Tennessee river into this section. Previous to the Gunterville report, it is claimed that the caterpillar had not been seen this season in Alabama north of Auburn. There is little fear that much damage can be done by the worm coming at this late date in the cotton season, because cotton is much more advanced than it was when the infestation occurred last season and there is plenty of calcium arsenate available this year for the war of extermination.

DENY CONSOLIDATION WITH NICKEL PLATE

Chicago, August 14.—Reports current today that the Chicago and Eastern Illinois railway would be included in the Nickel Plate railway merger were denied today by officers of the road.

COOLIDGE AND FAMILY GO TO VERMONT TODAY

Washington, August 14.—President Coolidge and Mrs. Coolidge and their son, John, will go back to Vermont Friday for a short vacation among the hills where the president spent his boyhood.

He expects to spend about 10 or 12 days resting at the home of his father. The presidential party will leave here at 2 o'clock Friday afternoon. It will include only President and Mrs. Coolidge and the son, and the usual assignment of secret service attendants and newspapermen.

The president will spend much of his time out of doors, pitching hay and riding back with his son. He expects to devote some time to consideration of pending problems in the quiet of the country. One of the matters which he will give his attention will be the two reports of the tariff commission on the cost of sugar production, upon which he will base his decision as to lowering or raising the tariff.

Several visiting republican leaders called at the white house Thursday with optimistic reports of the campaign. Hamilton F. Krav, candidate for the republican nomination in New Jersey opposing Senator Edge, said that La Follette will get three votes in the east from the democrats to one from republican ranks. While admitting that La Follette would have some strength in New Jersey, Krav said that Coolidge would carry the state.

Charles D. Hilles, republican national committeeman from New York, said that a careful survey of the situation in the state indicated a safe margin for the president.

DEATH TAKES WIDOW OF JOSEPH JEFFERSON

New York, August 14.—Mrs. Sarah Antoinette Jefferson, widow of Joseph Jefferson, actor, died here last night at the home of her sons. She was 74 years old.

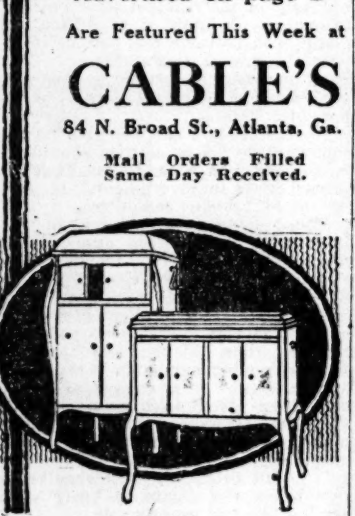

Mrs. Jefferson is survived by two sons, William Winter and Frank J. Jefferson, both of this city. She will be buried in Sandwich, Mass.

ALABAMA STATIONS CUT GASOLINE PRICE

Birmingham, Ala., August 14.—Four companies cut the price of gasoline on the Gulf today, it was announced. The price now is 21 cents a gallon including the 2-cent state tax. The companies announcing reductions are the Standard Oil, Wofford Oil company, Gulf Refining company and General Oil company. The reduction is state-wide, local officials said.

Dresses that you're going to like first of all, because they're so pretty and becoming—and they show so many little touches of newness. And then when you inquire the price and find them to be but $24.75 — you'll like them still more!

They're made of lustrous satin crepes, with here and there a dull side turned for trimming. They're in tunic style with pleated skirt underneath, in tube-like style, with groups of circular tucks, in pleated apron front style—some with long sleeves and some with short sleeves. Black predominates—but there are some lovely autumn browns, too.

Judging them from their style and the beauty of their fabrics—you'd take them to be dollars more than $24.75!

THE COOLIDGE KEYNOTE.

Were conditions, which are known of all people, different, the acceptance address of President Coolidge would be regarded as a strong campaign document and a vote-winning keynote.

As it is, however, American institutions call for party government, and while President Coolidge speaks his own policies and his own convictions, the records unmistakably prove that he cannot speak for his party which not only repudiated, through its control of congress, many of the outstanding principles he advocates, but stands convicted before the bar of public opinion for high crimes and violations that he personally decries and denounces. Evidently realizing the wide chasm that developed between the president and the republican-controlled legislative branch of government and the weakness that such a situation presents, the president, speaking as a candidate, throws the whole emphasis of his address upon the personal pronoun—that is to say, what he, as an individual, subscribed to and supported. But the records develop that while he carried many of these issues direct to a congress, both houses of which were in control of his own party, he failed to receive the cooperation that made the attainment of his objectives possible.

The views of President Coolidge are sound, insofar as they touch the great fundamentals of America's social, economic and moral life, concerning which there are no party differences, but the president can speak only for himself, for his party since March, 1921, has made a record that runs either in an opposite direction or at a right angle to the president's views.

The president says he stands for honesty in government, but not in the history of this nation has an administration stood so universally convicted of dishonesty as the party of which he is the head. Of course Calvin Coolidge, the man, stands for honesty, and no one questions it; but the record of the republican administration is too vulnerable for argument.

The president devotes the major portion of his address to a defense of the constructive accomplishments of the republican administrations and many things of a constructive nature have unquestionably been accomplished, but they were not of party origin or design. The democrats in congress entered as heartily into their accomplishments as did the republicans, and it is a sorry day in America when party jealousies shall reach such a point that cooperation for the material benefit of all the people shall be withheld because of it. The president especially cites the adoption of the budget system, which has undoubtedly saved millions of dollars to the federal treasury, and promoted greater usefulness and efficiency on the part of all governmental departments, but it must not be forgotten that the late President Wilson was the father of the budget system and made it the paramount recommendation to a republican congress which turned the proposal down flat at the time.

The president naturally enough defends a protective tariff—this being a cardinal republican principle—and yet pleads in another paragraph for lower taxes for the masses who are indirectly taxed, and severely so through the increased costs that are always passed on to the consumers.

To the average reader, perhaps, this inconsistency may not be detectable and yet of all the taxes that strike heaviest at the heartstones of the more than one hundred million American people who are not directly affected by federal taxation, the levies of a protective tariff—and especially those of the Fordney-McCumber bill—strike heaviest.

The president's address is undoubtedly a strong document from the personal viewpoint of the Calvin Coolidge, the individual. It is seriously, if not fatally discounted by the record of a party that Calvin Coolidge, the individual and even the president of the United States, does not speak for.

The words of one and the record of the other do not harmonize.

NATIONAL DEFENSE TEST.

A great deal of misunderstanding apparently exists throughout the country as to the "national defense test" ceremonies and exercises to be held by orders of the president on September 12 in each community where there is established a national guard or an organized reserve.

This has been occasioned, no doubt, by the unfortunate injection of politics into a controversy as to whether the exercises should partake of military displays, indicative of preparations for further war, to which ultra-pacifists have objected, or simply evidences of patriotism on the part of men and women generally acting in conjunction with recognized official and unofficial defense organizations.

Not only is there nothing objectionable in the plans, as proposed and which will be carried out, but there is every good reason why the whole nation should enter heartily and happily and certainly unreservedly in the program.

As a part of the ceremonies in each community it is proposed to include patriotic music, an invocation for the continued peace and safety of the nation and a patriotic address by a selected speaker whose theme will be along the lines of the clause in the preamble to the constitution of the United States, "to provide for the national defense."

The event will provide instruction for persons in the military service and also afford opportunity for patriotic assemblies, parades of local units of the army, state guards, civic and war veteran societies, etc., accordingly as may be developed in each community.

Under direction of General D. C. Shanks, commanding the Fourth Corps area, with headquarters in Atlanta, the exercises in this area, consisting of North and South Carolina, Georgia, Florida, Tennessee, Alabama, Mississippi and Louisiana, will be held at a late hour in the afternoon of September 12, in order to give opportunity for all those who feel so disposed to show their interest in the matter of national safety and their commendation of our national guard and reserve corps who have volunteered to defend their country in case of necessity.

The Fourth Corps has more young men than any other in the United States in training in our colleges and universities. We have a great national guard, which is becoming more efficient each year. It will be a great thing, of which we may feel justly proud, if the Fourth Corps area in this national defense test can make a showing which will place it in advance of any other section.

In all well-regulated schools there are, from time to time, fire drills in order to train the children in the methods which would be most effective for their safety in case of actual fire. It would be folly to wait until the building is actually ablaze before holding the first drill.

The simple, inexpensive measures provided for our national defense rest in large part upon the patriotism of our people. Our national defense test of September 12 is nothing more nor less than a mere drill in the measures which we would adopt in case of national emergency.

There is no good reason for prejudice against it—and such prejudice as exists is simply carrying pacifism too far.

It is commendable that the Argonne Post No. 1 of the American Legion and also Atlanta Post No. 2, Veterans of Foreign Wars, have both come out strongly in favor of these defense test ceremonies, which have been endorsed by many patriotic organizations of men and women throughout the country, among them being the Daughters of the American Revolution; Sons of the American Revolution; Sons of the Revolution; Daughters of 1812; United Daughters of the Confederacy; Spanish War Veterans; Naval and Military Order of the Spanish-American War; Veterans of Foreign Wars of the United States; American Legion; Disabled American Veterans of the World War; Military Order of the World War; Women's Overseas Service League; Women's Auxiliary of the American Legion; National Guard association; Reserve Officers' association of the United States; Association of the Army of the United States; Military Training Camps association; National League of Women's Service; Women's Constitutional League; League of American Sentinels of the Republic; National Security League; National Association for Constitutional Government; National Civic Federation; Camp Fire Girls.

The Glory of the Hills.
God is in the hills,
In grandeur everlasting,
In serenity,
God is in the hills,
In the valleys that lie between—
Wherein the harvest is made so carefully
The promise of His faith to him who tills;
And in the hills,
He walks, in solitude unknown,
The sea is wild, or quiet, as He wills.
His creations ever speak His praise;
His myriads of stars, His moon,
His sun—
How infinite the power they disclose!
Infinite also, in tender ways;
When all the great majestic works were done,
Was it less wonderful to make a rose?

Today's Talk

BY GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

THE EBBING NIGHT.
There is something sweet and soothing about the ebbing of the tide at water-front. One of the loveliest feelings which I own is called "Ebbing Tide" by Mayberry and I love it as I love the foot of my bed when I can see the first thing in the morning as I awake.

One evening I sat on my porch and watched the ebbing night. From where I sat I looked into great trees as they reached high into the air and stood like a vast hanging of black lace against the soft gray sky.

There was in the sky a clearness of great beauty; and, as the distant sun stood like a vast hanging of black lace against the soft gray sky, the whole background seemed like a magnificent sheet of pale pink pearl.

I could hear the rustle of the leaves like new silk; and though some queen had just passed by.

Everything seemed full of silence so that the late singing of the little white birds that echoed unusual happiness to join the night at its couch.

Across the lawn the robin ran to catch its night, and the nightingale. Minute by minute the birds faded from the sky until the dull gray gave way to a deepened blue which let the stars inside.

And then the face of the trees blackened the more; the leaves stopped their flutter and stood nobly silhouetted against a billion stars and worlds.

I said to myself: "What a beautiful night! God is in this night. Humanity is in this night. All the hope and aspiration in this world is in this night. Poets are in this night; painters, builders, writers, and every sort of human feeling. For out of this night must come the new day—and the chances of us all."

Across the ethereal waves of the ebbing night God takes His walk; and it is in this night that angels take their stroll and men think kindest and open the windows and doors of their hearts.

THE WORLD'S WINDOW

BY PIERRE VAN PAASSEN.

A Play
With a Climax.

Place: Semmlinoff, Russia. Scene: A soviet court-room. Dramatic personae: A prosecutor of the cheka or secret police; the defendant, a Jewish farmer; witnesses, soldiers, journalists.

Prosecutor: "You are accused of criticizing the soviet regime. You ought to know that the government cannot tolerate any opposition, not even the merest flicker of it. It amounts to the same thing as counter-revolution. What have you got to say for yourself?"

Defendant: "I fully agree with you, Mr. Prosecutor, that I fully agree with the whole communist program with the exception of the government's agricultural policy."

Prosecutor: "Ah, that is interesting. We will write your opinion in the records of the court. What particular phase of the government's policy seems not just or efficient to you?"

Defendant: "Well, Mr. Prosecutor, the agricultural policy we have at the present time aims to put me under the ground. I am in favor of 'planting' about 200,000 communists."

Astonishment. Confusion. Laughter. Shouts of "order" and "put him in chains."

"Yuh Gotta See Mamma Every Night!"
A French newspaper says it has got wind of marital trouble in the Escorial, the summer dwelling of Alfonso, king by the grace of Primo de Rivera, president of the military directory of Spain. It seems that the Moroccan trouble with the Riff tribes causes his majesty little solution of that vexed question of the man who is king in reality, Alfonso has his heart all set on going to Deauville in France, where there are gay parties, beautiful women, luxurious cabarets and splendid dance halls and casinos. At the last moment Queen Victoria intervened and the king's postponement of his departure is given out that the colonial political situation has upset his plans, but the French newspaper has it that the queen does not want the king to go to Deauville and get his name and picture in all foreign publications, dancing with lovely actresses and American tourist girls. So the king stays home.

Phlegmatic Hollander Gets Executed.
Holland newspapers are greatly concerned over a certain phase of the religious question in that country. While the Eucharistic congress was being held in Amsterdam recently and cardinals and bishops from all over Europe flocked to the Dutch capital, the king, King Wilhelmina, sent church authorities to hold a procession of the Sacred Eucharist through the streets of the city as a part of the elaborate ceremonial attendant upon such a congress. Beside producing a violent row in the second chamber, where the Calvinists opposed their brothers in the Catholic-Catholic coalition, the king in several places there were demonstrations and a procession was being held within the city stadium, but that has not quieted the popular mind. It is pointed out in some newspapers that Her Majesty Queen Wilhelmina went on a trip to Sweden in order to avoid having to meet the foreign princes of the church as head of the state. That she was not a Catholic was the point of the House of Orange and the last descendant of Admiral de Coligny would not shrink meeting the Catholic prelates. When by the advent of Europe smarted under the sting of the papal encyclical on Borromeo, Queen Wilhelmina was the first to challenge the pope's words. Queen Wilhelmina is not afraid and she really has no reason to be. She's not dealing with savages.

They dragged me out to one of those interpretive dances again. This one was where the ancient Egyptian hieroglyphics came to life. I didn't know of it, not even on the second bounce, but I was entranced by a fellow in front of me who went to sleep. His toupee slipped as he slumped in his seat and for a half hour it threatened to fall to the floor. Author of Anti-Surcharge Bill Writes on Failure

Editor Constitution: In view of the fact that there has been so much in the papers recently concerning a bill I introduced in the house eliminating the surcharge on sleeping and parlor cars in the state of Georgia, as well as the very unusual happenings in the house and senate relating to this bill, I give these happenings in detail.

After the bill was introduced in the house, and a favorable report was had by the committee to which it was referred, I became impressed, due to the congestion in the house, on account of the hundreds of bills pending, that the wisest course would be to get the bill through the senate, and thus add to the chances of a consideration of same by the house.

I got Senator Granham, of the forty-sixth district, to introduce in the senate a copy of the bill then pending in the house, with the result that it passed the senate by a unanimous vote on Friday last week. The bill was favorably reported by the committee of the house to which it was referred on Monday, and was given a second reading on the same day. This bill two days before it was voted in the house, which was never secured until about daylight Thursday morning, when it received 88 votes, without a dissenting vote being cast against it.

I appeared before the rules committee on Tuesday morning, with an appeal that it be given a place on Tuesday's calendar, which was done, and was placed at the foot of the calendar for Tuesday, and, of course, was never reached.

I am satisfied that the bill had been put on passage at any time before 2 o'clock Thursday morning. It would have received the constitutional requirement in number of votes, and would be a law today.

I am without words to express my regret at this unfortunate end of a piece of legislation that would have saved the citizens of Georgia $300,000.00 a year. It was unavoidable, so far as I was concerned.

In this connection I would not omit to mention the active support given the bill by the official representatives of the commercial organizations, and especially Mr. Samuel Slade, chairman of the legislative committee of the T. P. A., Mr. N. A. Broyles, official representative of the National Association of the T. P. A. for the southeastern states, and Mr. John H. Andrews, of the board of directors of the T. P. A.

HEALTH TALKS

BY WILLIAM BRADY, M. D.

The Bow-legged Bambi.
Why are so many little bimbos bow-legged when they begin to walk? And why do most of these bow legs straighten out all right by the time the youngsters get sense enough to renounce their allegiance to the vets and come over solidly to the druggists?

The usual cause of bowing of the legs is rickets, and rickets is a disorder of nutrition which is due to inadequate food, principally the use of artificial substitutes for natural food, but also attributable to insufficient sunshine in the baby's life. If you want a healthy baby you've got to see that he takes the air every day and let him have his fair share of sunlight on his naked skin. This does not mean that it is right to expose a baby to the torture of sunburn nor that it is right to leave the baby out where the direct sun can beat on his eyes, but merely that a reasonable amount of sun bathing is the best medicine in the world for babies in general, and for rickets or malnourished babies in particular.

It is the insufficient amount of vitamin in the "artificial" or manufactured substitute that accounts for the development of some degree of rickets in so many infants of the uneducated classes. The uneducated class include many of our best families, as much among the wealthier people in cities as among the poor people.

The wealthier people perhaps do not let the disease progress so far, but they are holed or cowed, contains considerable vitamin which is destroyed or diminished by pasteurization or by boiling or by any other cooking process. Cod liver oil (the plain stuff and not anybody's special brand) is perhaps the richest of all foods in the vitamin which prevents and cures rickets. So, if the baby shows any sign of rickets it is wise to begin to give 5 or 10 drops of cod liver oil in his bottle every day from the second month, and increase this to

Are there any statues of Americans in Westminster Abbey? There is a bust of Longfellow and a tablet of Lowell in Westminster Abbey.

Is it possible to use both hands with equal skill? It is quite possible for people to use both hands with equal skill and simultaneously for different work. In fact there are schools that teach this. What is the highest mountain peak in the state of New York? Mount Marcy, having an elevation of 5,900 feet.

Who discovered the South Pole? The South Pole was discovered by Roald Amundsen, Norwegian explorer, December 14, 1911.

What were Thomas Paine's last words? "Some authorities assert they were 'I have no wish to believe on that side of the question.' The inquiry, 'Do you wish to believe that Jesus is the Son of God?'"

What birds sing at night? The nightingale, vesper sparrow, mockingbird, yellow-breasted chat, oven bird and rose-breasted grosbeak.

What is the fastest running dog? The whippet. How many eggs will a pigeon lay before she will set? A hen pigeon usually lays two eggs.

Text: "I have learned, in whatsoever state I am, therewith to be content." Phil. 4:11. Not even so gifted a soul as that of Paul had, by nature, this choice of virtue of contentment.

The wisdom of contentment—"I have learned"—by nature, this choice of virtue of contentment.

If, therefore, we find ourselves or those about us deficient in this grace, let us not be too severe, but let us be hopeful; for, if so good a man as Paul had to learn this lesson, surely lesser spirits may charitably be given sufficient time and discipline in order to possess it.

"Godliness, with contentment, is half a tearful day after the half month. The fresh fruit juices are likewise rich in vitamins, though more so in the vitamins which prevent and cure rickets. A reaser wrote me a while ago how her baby had bow legs, and how her physician had cured the baby. At 17 months the baby was now bow-legged and could scarcely stand up, caused, the mother wrote, by keeping the baby on a soft food too long. Then the doctor laid down a diet, including fresh meat broths, cooked fresh vegetables and broths, fresh fruits (vegetables and fresh fruits run through a coarse sieve), whole cereals well cooked, and in a short time the legs straightened out, and the baby was now perfect. I dare say the stronger the baby was the more she took the air and the sunshine.

Another reader writes that if the bow-legged baby's parents will provide for a tricycle for the baby as soon as he can learn to run, one, and have the seat a little high, so he will have to stretch his legs to reach the pedals, the baby's legs will straighten out. Such exercise cured her boys, one of whom was bow-legged until he was five years old. Still another reader in another state sends me the same suggestion. It is one of the three great preventives and remedies for rickets—unnatural food, plenty of sunlight, a chance to get sufficient exercise every day.

QUESTIONS and ANSWERS.
Milk Diet.
Authority on Pickles.
To settle an argument please tell me if pickles are classed as vegetables or relishes. A claims that being originally vegetables they are still to be classed as such. B says that when vegetables are pickled they are no longer to be classed as vegetables but as a relish. (D. McE.)

Answer: B wins, though there are exceptions, of course, such as pickled figs. Fig's feet are no longer vegetables when pickled, yet they are food, and quite necessary to a balanced diet. (Copyright, 1924, for The Constitution.)

State Port Measure Loses In Last-Minute Jam of Bills

The proposal to amend the constitution of the state of Georgia to allow the state to issue $15,000,000 in bonds for the construction of a state port was defeated in the house early Thursday morning when it failed to receive the requisite two-thirds majority necessary to place it before the voters of the state. The vote was 71 for the submission of the proposal to the people and 56 against. The proposal was called up for consideration at 11 o'clock Wednesday night and the vote was announced one hour and fifty minutes later. Officially, however, the time was not yet 12 o'clock.

Representative Dixon, of Jenkins county, author of the bill, was the first speaker in favor of the proposal, pleading for the adoption of the proposed amendment on the grounds that it would bring Georgia to the forefront of the state in the matter of state port facilities.

Representative Elders, of Tattall county, led the opposition to the measure. He was the first signer of a minority committee report seeking to advise the bill. Mr. Elders stated that the bill provides that under the wording of the measure, the principal could be used to pay the interest. He said that he further opposed the bill on the ground that state tax laws were in great need of revision and he charged that members of the Chatham county delegation, who were sponsoring the proposal, had seen tax revision measures come up on the floor during this session and had not raised their voices in aid.

Opposed to Port Plan.

He said there is no need for a state port in Savannah from an economic

Asthma Instantly Relieved

A Guaranteed Remedy

All druggists here or every druggist in the United States, as a matter of fact, are authorized to sell Asthmador or Asthmador Cigarettes on the positive guarantee that if they do not give almost instant relief and even more, if not found absolutely the best remedy ever used for Bronchial Asthma, Difficult Breathing or the Asthmatic symptoms accompanying Hay Fever, money will be refunded by them without question.

Sufferers who have not already tried these remedies, can rely on the genuineness of this guarantee, as well as depend on its fulfillment, in view of being backed up by their own druggist, in case it should fail. The more severe, violent or obstinate the case, the more will Asthmador be appreciated and prized, after its first trial. The percentages of failure to relieve promptly are so small that the manufacturers have no hesitancy in announcing this guarantee, and are willing, desirous and anxious to refund to the infinite few sufferers who do not obtain relief, as neither they, nor the druggists who sold the package, want your money, if not relieved. standpoint because in 1923 the state imported more foodstuffs than it raised. He asked if the representatives were going to burden themselves with a $15,000,000 bond issue to build an experiment for the glorification of Savannah.

Representative Sutlive, of Chatham, stated that Mr. Elders had failed to say in his speech that the foodstuffs that were imported by Georgia last year were brought from states possessing state ports. He said that there is nothing new about the proposal for a state port, declaring that the newspapers of the state had been discussing the proposal for the last two years. Many organizations in the state, he said, have endorsed the project and he denied that it was a Savannah project, but was a Georgia project, and pointed out that provision had been made in the bill for the people of the state to decide where the state port should be located.

Mr. Sutlive pointed out the aid that such a state port would be to diversification of crops in the state. He said it would provide for farmers a place where they could store diversified products when the markets were not right to sell them. He said also that the farmers could take the receipts for their stored products to any bank in the state and get cash on them.

Stovall Against Bill.
Representative Stovall, of Elbert county, said that the present bonded indebtedness of the state was incurred more than 40 years ago and that he saw no need at this time for an increase of it. He said if the measure passed it would benefit chiefly the railroads and the steamship lines. He said that he has been told that the facilities already existing in Savannah are more than are used.

Mr. Sutlive interrupted at this point to ask the speaker where he got the idea it is a Savannah project.

Mr. Stovall replied that his objection was to a state port at any place, then told of administrative expenses and troubles that would be encountered and predicted the people would never ratify such a bond issue.

Mr. Sutlive, by a question, brought out the point that peaches from Australia are shipped to Georgia after having been held in cold storage at such a port.

New's Motion Lost.
At this point in the debate the previous question was demanded and Representative New, of Laurens county, moved to table the port bill proposal. His motion was lost 62 to 53.

The previous question then being put, on the report of the committee favoring passage of the measure, a victory of 63 to 56 was recorded.

The question of consideration then became one on adoption of the proposal itself.

Mr. New said no one can say that this project would be a success, declaring that that would be a matter wholly up to one's imagination. He said that the state has $15,000,000, the amount of the proposed issue, at 6 per cent per annum would be $900,000, which, he said, would have to be paid from the taxes of the state.

Representative Mann, of Glynn, presented a letter which had been written more than a year ago by the mayor of Brunswick to the members of the legislature. The letter, while endorsing the principle of a state port, opposed this particular move on the ground, it said, that the move was a political one. The mayor, stressing the need for such a port, asked that this proposal be abandoned and a commission named to make a survey of the state to ascertain the needs of the state as to a state port.

Representative Weaver, of Terrell county, asked, in a brief talk, that all who favored any aid to farmers to give the measure their support.

Now Is Overruled.
Representative New made a point of order on the wording of the bill but was overruled by the speaker.

Representative Wimberly, of Laurens county, making a point of information, asked if the bill could be considered after 12 o'clock, looking at his watch at the time. The speaker said that the only time he could recognize was the official time of the house which was before him. It was shown by the clock to be 11:30 p. m. A point of order was made that the clock had been stopped, but was overruled.

When the roll call began, Representatives Atkinson and Eve, of Chatham county, made brief addresses favoring the bill, in explanation of their votes. Mr. Atkinson was floor leader for the measure. Many other members also availed themselves of the three-minute explanation of vote privilege to argue for and against the proposal. When the roll call was about half finished, unanimous consent was asked and obtained to dispense with further explanation of votes. After this, several members attempted to explain their votes, but having heard the question owing to the confusion in the chamber, their pleas to be heard, however, were turned down.

After action on the port bill, the house adjourned immediately to other measures on the calendar for last-minute consideration.

MRS. JONES' FUNERAL WILL BE HELD TODAY

Funeral services for Mrs. Dunwoody Jones, prominent Georgia woman and widow of Major Dunwoody Jones, who died Thursday morning at the home of a son, John Ashley Jones, 83 Juniper street, will be held at 4 o'clock this afternoon from her son's residence, with Rev. Dunbar H. Ogden officiating. Interment will be in Oakland cemetery, with H. M. Patterson & Son in charge.

Mrs. Jones was a native Georgian, having been born in Camden county, and moved to Atlanta 53 years ago. She was a leader in church and civic circles of the city during her residence here, having been a member of the Central Presbyterian church for more than 50 years. She also was a member of the Atlanta chapter of the United Daughters of the Confederacy, and many other organizations.

Mrs. Jones, who was 76 years old, had been ill for several years, her death resulting from a paralytic stroke, which a short time ago caused her retirement from active work.

She was a member of a prominent Georgia family, and previous to her marriage was Miss Mary Cornelia Ashley. Her husband was a distinguished pioneer citizen of the state. He was the discoverer of the phosphate deposits in Georgia, and was engaged in the phosphate business at the time of his death several years ago. Her son, John Ashley Jones, is commander of the Sons of the Confederacy, and is one of Atlanta's best known residents.

In addition to John Ashley Jones, Mrs. Jones is survived by two sons, Logan and Percy Jones, of Savannah; four daughters, Mrs. Malcolm Cunningham, of Savannah; Mrs. W. H. Hillyer, of New York city; Mrs. J. Pritchard, of Greenville, S. C.; and Mrs. E. H. Demere, of Savannah, and a brother, Claude L. Ashley, of Atlanta.

MACCABEES APPOINT STATE TRAFFIC HEAD

Plans for a determined effort to route several thousand Maccabees of western states by way of Atlanta in the summer of 1925, when a Maccabee motorcade from all sections of the nation will move on Washington, D. C., for the national convention, took definite shape Thursday with the appointment of M. D. Gleason as traffic manager for Georgia.

The new traffic manager is charged with mapping out plans for the California motorcade to proceed via Atlanta to Washington in 1925. Tentative plans call for a two-day stopover in Atlanta when local Maccabee tents and Atlanta civic clubs are expected to join hands in entertaining members of the party. The California party, augmented by several hundred Maccabees of other western states, is expected to number more than 3,000 persons; 1,500 cars are expected to bring the huge party to this city.

GEORGIA SENATOR HURLS CHALLENGE FOR CONSISTENCY

Senator Boyce Ficklen, Sr., 73-year-old representative of the fifth district, made up of the counties of Clarke, Oglethorpe and Wilkes, arose in his seat in the senate early Thursday morning to issue an unrestricted challenge to legislators everywhere for consistency of service.

The senator from the fifth district, who is a Washington editor when the general assembly is not in session, declared that in a period of service extending over eight years he has never missed a roll call, has attended every committee meeting to which he has been assigned except when two or more were in session at the same time, and has never been reprimanded by a presiding officer in either house for indecorous conduct.

DANCING MASTERS DRAW REGULATIONS FOR REFORM OF ART

New York, August 14.—"Keep your distance—three inches—and don't whisper."

This slogan for dancers was adopted today by the International Association of Dancers.

"The proper position for tripping the fantastic toe in public is for partners to stay far enough apart so that when they converse they must raise their voices above a whisper," said a resolution adopted.

"The left arm of the leader and the right arm of his partner should be gracefully extended and the former's right hand should be placed at the small of his partner's back, ever so lightly—but firmly."

W. F. Kavanaugh, of New Bedford, Mass., who has been teaching dancing half a century, said:

"If dancers will live up to these regulations there will be no further need for such ballroom signs as 'improper dancing not permitted' or 'strangle holds and half Nelsons barred,' or 'your feet—move them, too!'"

WOMEN HEAR ADDRESS BY FLORENCE HADLEY

"There is no cause for colored women of the South to champion any of the styles and fashions worn by some members of the race," declared Florence Hadley, president, in delivering her annual message to the annual session of the Woman's Home and Foreign Missionary society of the A. M. E. church in the first A. M. E. church, Rockdale park, Thursday morning.

"No race can rise," continued the speaker, "above the standard set by its women."

Rev. H. D. Canale, presiding elder of the Griffin district, delivered the annual sermon, Mattie Ford, Gussie Fleming, John Harmon, M. L. Ward, W. M. Williams and J. E. Hall delivered addresses covering every phase of missionary work.

Rev. J. A. Hadley and J. H. McFarlin spoke on the progress being made by the colored people of the South compared with that in the North and East.

Representatives from five districts made reports which showed that the district is in a spiritual and financial condition.

Sessions will continue through Sunday with addresses by prominent ministers and educators.

MONEY IS SOUGHT FOR RENUMBERING ATLANTA STREETS

Aldermen J. R. Bachman, chairman of the city council's finance committee, and City Comptroller B. Graham West were authorized by the finance committee Thursday to canvass the city apportionment sheet for funds with which to carry out a program of renumbering all streets in the city of Atlanta.

It was said to be doubtful whether the work could be financed this year.

Chief of Construction William A. Hansell told the committee the house numbers were confused in several parts of the city and that some duplication had resulted as a result of lack of complete records in the construction department as to house numbers on all streets.

FEDERAL WORKERS THANKFUL TIPPING IS LAWFUL AGAIN

Hundreds of government employees were rejoicing Thursday over the action of the general assembly in repealing the Georgia anti-tip law.

Heads of several departments of the federal offices in Atlanta said Thursday afternoon that while the government allows tips to be charged to expense accounts, for travel in other states, the practice here has been penalized since the Georgia law. As a result all tips have come out of the pockets of the agents, themselves. This has proved a burden to many government employees.

ACCUSED SHERIFF LEADS LIQUOR RAID.

Milltown, Ga., August 14.—(Special.)—Following his return here this afternoon from a successful raid in which a quantity of whisky and an automobile were seized and one man arrested, Sheriff Elijah Tucker denied that there was any foundation for the charges of connivance with bootleggers, made by federal prohibition agents Tuesday and for which he is now under $1,000 bond.

The sheriff told friends here that, apparently, he had been "framed" by a federal agent who gave him a name as Buck White. White, the sheriff said, had approached him Monday with a plea for some whisky for medicinal use, explaining that he had been suffering from loss of sleep.

The sheriff conducted White to the residence of Grover Borette, about six miles west of Milltown, where a "small bottle filled with some kind of stimulant, supposed to be moonshine," was given to him without charge.

Seize Liquor and Auto.

The next day Fred D. Dismuke and a posse of deputies raided Borette's place and seized 20 gallons of whisky and an automobile, placed Borette under $1,000 bond and the sheriff under a similar bond on charge of conspiracy.

Sheriff Tucker had been renominated in March for another term of four years as sheriff, running on a "dry" and law-enforcement ticket and defeating his opponent by the largest majority ever polled by an opposed candidate in Lanier county.

In the raid conducted by Sheriff Tucker today, while at liberty under bond, Irwin Parrish, of Grady county, was arrested and placed under $1,200 bond and a quantity of whisky and his automobile seized.

COOLIDGE'S SPEECH RAPPED BY SHAVER

to ask what the president means by this amazing statement. What sort of an answer is this to the bribe-taking in the department of the interior, the stealing in the veterans' bureau and the graft in the department of justice? Does the president mean that, because of the budget system, these things did not occur? Or does he mean that if they did occur, that because of the budget system they were not dishonest; or does he mean because of the budget system the party of which he is the leader and candidate is not responsible and should not be criticized? I am at a loss as to the logic of the president's defense.

Discusses Yet Scandal.

"Even more incredible, however, than the president's reply, above quoted, is his eulogistic reference to the conduct of the veterans' bureau under the last administration. For the president as a presidential candidate to boast of what his party did for the disabled soldiers through the department and to ignore the fact that his party placed and maintained, until forced out at the head of that department, a man now under indictment for stealing its funds, takes a sort of political courage I did not know existed."

"If this is not complacency in the face of corruption, what is it? It seems impossible that Mr. Coolidge should think his budget an economy argument, an adequate answer to a corruption that has shaken the faith of the people in the government, or that he thinks them so forgetful that they will not recall the fact about what members of his own party have called 'the tragic looting of the veterans' bureau.'"

NO BETTER JUSTIFICATION FOR THE DEMOCRATIC ISSUE OF 'HONESTY IN GOVERNMENT' IS NEEDED THAN MR. COOLIDGE'S SPEECH.

COTTON OIL MILLS UNITED BY MERGER

Little Rock, Ark., August 14.—Merger of more or less cotton oil mills operating in Arkansas, Tennessee, Kentucky, Missouri, and Illinois into a single system, to be controlled by the National Cottonseed Products corporation, a newly formed Tennessee concern with a capital of $8,000,000, was announced here tonight.

HARWELL INTERRED BESIDE HIS WIFE

Constitution Bureau, Masonic Temple Annex, Phone 1069.

Rome, Ga., August 14.—(Special.)—The body of Paul Harwell, who last Saturday slew his wife, Mrs. Bessie Harwell, and then turned the same gun on himself, was buried beside his victim in Fellowship cemetery here this afternoon. No injunction threatened today by members of the family of the dead woman, in an effort to keep Harwell from resting beside his wife, was taken out.

Funeral services preceding interment were held at Nichols & Sons chapel, in charge of the body. Harwell was penniless at the time of the killings and friends made up a purse to bury him.

The slaying occurred at the home of Mrs. Fannie Bedford, Mrs. Harwell's aunt. Notes found after the deed stated that Mrs. Harwell refused to accompany him west and that he could not stand it longer. Jealousy was assigned as the cause of the act also. Mrs. Harwell was buried Sunday.

Eastern Star Inspected.

Rome, Ga., August 14.—(Special.)—Constellation chapter No. 191, Order of Eastern Star, was inspected Wednesday night by Mrs. Mamie Johnson, of Augusta, worthy grand matron of Georgia.

Mrs. Lula Turner, of Atlanta, associate worthy grand matron of Georgia, accompanied Mrs. Johnson.

There are 103 members of Constellation chapter.

Vets Hold Reunion.

Rome, Ga., August 14.—(Special.)—Wednesday afternoon the annual reunion of the surviving members of Company "G," of the 122d Georgia Confederate regiment, was held at the Presbyterian church near Lindale, the place from which the company marched away to war in the sixties.

Only eight members are left and some of them were not able to attend the reunion Wednesday. Captain Harry Melkham was host to the old soldiers, and Brunswick stew and drinks were provided.

Rev. G. W. Thomas, of Columbus, was the captain of this company, and still living. Other members living are W. J. Vincent, T. N. Vincent, I. N. Teat, J. M. Compton, J. H. Jones, W. J. Pope and J. A. Sharp.

Addresses were made by Claude Porter and Frank Copeland, Rome attorneys.

The old soldiers elected their officers and J. A. Sharp was again named commander and T. N. Vincent, secretary.

A. M. Partee, 79, Dies.

Rome, Ga., August 14.—(Special.)—A. M. Partee, 79, died at his home in West Rome late Wednesday afternoon after a long illness.

He was a Confederate veteran and was well known throughout this county.

Funeral services will take place at the West Rome Baptist church. Rev. A. B. Carney will officiate, assisted by Rev. Willie Conn.

Rome Court Docket Big.

Rome, Ga., August 14.—(Special.)—The regular term of the city court is but two and one-half weeks off, and there are 25 prisoners in the jail in addition to a number of bonded cases to be tried.

John W. Bales, judge of the city court, states that he will close his court September 1, which is Labor day, but will immediately take a recess until Tuesday morning.

MAROONED COUPLE WEDDED AS WAVES LAP HOUSE SIDES

Peoria, Ill., August 14.—Marooned in a cottage, which had been completely surrounded by flood waters from the rapidly rising Illinois river, Clarence W. Wirtz, Peoria, and Wilma Smith, formerly of Louisiana, Mo., called for a justice of the peace and were married.

The justice, Edward Owen, donning hip boots and oil skins, was rowed out to the cottage by two men in a boat and the wedding ceremony was performed while waves lapped the sides of the house.

Attempted Suicide Is Held No Crime By Virginia Judge

Norfolk, Va., August 14.—Attempting suicide is no crime in Virginia, Judge O. L. Shackleford, of the corporation court, ruled today in the appeal case of Samuel Eugene Bray, Jr., who had asked the court to quash a warrant charging him with attempted self-destruction.

Bray was arraigned some time ago in police court after he had taken poison in an attempt to end his life. His attorneys contended there was no law against suicide in this state. Justice R. B. Spindle overruled the defense and sentenced Bray to a jail term for a misdemeanor. The appeal was from that decision.

$49,000,000 OF COTTON PASSES THRU NORFOLK

Norfolk, Va., August 14.—Nearly $49,000,000 worth of cotton—$33,944 bales—was shipped through this port for the 1923-24 season just ended, it was announced today. The figures set a new high record for the port.

They also show that for the first time more cotton was sent from Norfolk to Germany than to Liverpool, for many years chief buyer of the commodity sent from this section. Russia also received 9,821 bales through local shipments, the first in three years. The big increase in shipments was due to the unusually big crop in North Carolina.

Japs Defeated By Australians

Providence, R. I., August 14.—Australia triumphed over Japan here today in the opening singles matches in the final round of play in the American Davis cup competition when Gerald L. Paterson, Antipodean star, defeated Zenzo Shimizu, of Japan, in straight sets, 7-5, 11-9, 6-4, and Pat O'Hara Wood, of Australia, defeated Sunao Okamoto, of Japan, in a thrilling five-set match 6-4, 2-6, 6-4, 2-6, 6-1.

While the Australians won, the Japanese players showed unexpected strength. Okamoto, especially, proved to be a stubborn foe and it was not until Wood had been forced to display all of the tennis wizardry that line made him a feared contender that he succeeded in wearing down the Oriental star and winning by a margin of a single set.

Brookes, Norton Win Matches

Casino, Newport, R. I., August 14.—(By The Associated Press.)—Norman E. Brookes, the nestor of Australian lawn tennis, and Bryan I. C. Norton, former South African Davis cup star, shared the honors with two Californians in winning places in the semi-final of the Casino cup singles on turf courts here today. Brookes, the 47-year-old master of the racket, in easy strokes defeated John F. Whitbeck, Bronxville, N. Y., 6-4, 6-0.

Norton fought his way through two rounds. He began by defeating William J. Clothier, Philadelphia, national champion of 1907, 7-5, 2-6, 6-4. To gain the semi-final he outplayed Lewis N. White, of the University of Texas, 3-6, 6-2, 6-4.

William N. Johnston, San Francisco, and Harvey Snodgrass, Los Angeles, gained the other brackets. "Little Bill," of the Davis cup defense, was forced to the limits of his game to defeat Dr. George King, New York, 6-2, 5-7, 6-3.

Snodgrass, playing with cyclonic speed at drive and volley, simply overwhelmed Clarence J. Griffin, San Francisco. The tally was 6-0, 6-3.

Cruckshank Tied FOR LOW IN COLO.

Denver, Colo., August 14.—Bobby Cruckshank, of New York, and William Creamy, of Oklahoma City, were tied for low score in the Colorado open golf tournament here today when they turned in cards of 146 for the first 36 holes of play. Cyril Walker, national open champion, was far down with a score of 160.

GOOD WORK, MR. VANCE.

Cincinnati, August 14.—Dazzy Vance, in shutting out Cincinnati 3 to 0 today, won his twentieth victory of the season and his eighth straight. It was his fifteenth victory over western clubs, to some of whom has been lost a game this year. He allowed three scattered singles and fanned eight men, bringing his total strike out record for the season up to 177. Benton also pitched well, both of the runs scored off him being due to errors by Carey, but the Robins hit May for four hits.

Waycross Beats Marietta, 5 to 4

Albany, Ga., August 14.—(Special.)—Overcoming a four-run lead, Waycross defeated Marietta in the opening game of the series here today by a score of 5 to 4. Bloodworth, who started on the mound for Marietta, pitched good ball until the sixth, when he weakened and two runs counted when Gross hit one over left field fence with one on. Wilson relieved him in the eighth, but he, too, was hit hard. Waycross scoring three runs.

Joe Jackson gave the fans a thrill when he pulled one over the right field fence. Settles and Parrish both made sensational catches in the outfield for Marietta. Munner stole home in the fifth inning.

The two teams will play here again tomorrow.

CRACKERS BEAT B

Sustained Rally in Last
3 Frames Gives Atlanta
Final Game by 8-7 Score

BY GEORGE CONGDON.

After committing ghastly errors that gave the Bears a four-run lead at the end of the fifth frame, the Crackers swung into their winning stride in the sixth and seventh frames in each of the next three innings took the final game of the Mobile series by a score of 8 to 7 at Spiller field yesterday.

The win, accomplished in eight innings and by one of the most spectacular rallies staged this year on the home plot, gave the Crackers their fourth victory of the five-game series with Emil Hahn's follow-up.

The game was called when the Crackers scored the winning run with two down, in the eighth inning, to permit the Bears to catch an early train.

With the infield presenting a solid defense after the fifth inning, Bert Niehoff threw every able-bodied man he has, except Ray Francis, into the fray to come off with the lead.

Swartz was the last man to go, while Brock, Dumont and Karr went into the row to pinch hit.

Although Monroe Swartz gets credit for the win, while Acosta, who relieved Long on the Mobile mound in the seventh inning, gave the Bears a run.

With New Orleans romping all over the Barons yesterday, the Crackers are just holding their own for second place against the Pebs. The Barons slip over here to open a three-game series today. A single game is scheduled for Friday, with a double-header Saturday.

Today's game will start at the usual time of 3 o'clock.

Niehoff, Burrows and Zoellers delivered yesterday's victory. Each got two hits and at times when they were most needed.

Mobile started the struggle with a steady game that netted one run in each of the first three frames.

In the first inning, D. Williams led off by reaching first safely and proceeding to third when Hillis threw will to first. Kelley followed with a single.

Williams crashed a triple up on the right-field bank, but was stranded when Hahn popped weakly to Niehoff.

pair of runs across in the third after Autry popped to Hargrave and McLaughlin fled to D. Williams in left field. Zoellers followed them with a pretty single to right field and went to third when Good laid the pill upon the right-field bank for a couple of hassocks. Zoellers scored and Good took third on a wild pitch by Long.

Good came on in when Paschal shot a swift one through Mariott's home plot, gave the Crackers the inning by whiffing.

Bears Score Three. McLaughlin held the Bears hitless in the fourth, but in the fifth they scored three runs, largely because of Cracker errors. Denny Williams led off with a single to left field and was sent to second when Kelley sacrificed and was safe on Burrows' error.

On the next reversal, a sacrifice by Mulvey, McLaughlin threw wild to first and Williams and Kelley scored. The Bears went to third on Rhine Williams' fly to Krehmer, but Hahn, by burning one through second base, scored Mulvey. Mariott went out to Burrows' unassisted one and Hargrave finished when he fled to Good.

With the Bears four runs to the good, the Crackers cut loose in the sixth with another pair of markers. Paschal fouled to Hahn. Burrows shot one through the box and took third when Hillis lifted one into right field for two bases. Niehoff hit a sacrifice fly to D. Williams that gave Burrows time to score after the catch and sent Hillis to third. When D. Williams threw wild to third on the relay to the plate, Hillis crossed the pan. Krehmer lifted to D. Williams.

The Crackers continued their sharp shooting in the seventh and tied the score with two more. Autry singled through third base, but was out. D. Williams to Mariott, when Brock, hitting for Peterson, who relieved McLaughlin, pounded one short to left field. Brock pulled up at second on the play. Brock was tagged out by Mariott, when Zoellers shot one to ward third. Zoellers, safe on a fielder's choice, went to second on a wild pitch and took third when Good was safe on Kelly's bobble. Paschal walked, filling the bases, and Burrows followed with a smash to center field that scored Zoellers and Good and sent Paschal to third. Hillis whiffed.

Bears Break Tie. The Bears broke the tie in the eighth when Stokes doubled to left field and scored on Denny Williams' scorching single through the box. He swung on the apple for a beautiful single to center field and was sent to third when Krehmer sacrificed and was safe on Hargrave's error. Autry followed with another sacrifice that put him safely on first on a fielder's choice. Karr, battering for Swartz, hit into a double play. Acosta to Stokes to Hahn, that caught him and retired Niehoff at the plate, but Krehmer went to third and Autry took second on the play. Zoellers smacked a single into right field, just beyond the head of Rhine Williams, scoring Krehmer and Autry, and the Bears led the field with one win out of five games.

New York, August 14.—Reports of additional rains in the southwest caused sharp reactions from today's opening advance in the cotton market, but prices firmed up again later on doubt of their efficiency and a favorable construction of the European political news. October contracts, which had sold off from 27.75 to 27.25, rallied to 27.50, but met a good deal of realizing at this figure and closed at 27.55. The general market closed barely steady at net advances of 1/4 to 1/2 points.

The market opened firm at 27.50 to 27.55 net higher during the early trading and then local buying promoted by relatively firm Liverpool cables and uncertainty as to whether there had been sufficient rain in the southwest to cause a material increase around 27.25 for December, however, with indications of rather more southern hedge selling, and the market weakened around midday on the detailed weather reports showing precipitation at 25 out of 50 stations reported in Texas.

Prices lost 1/2 but a few points of their earlier gain, but offerings tapered off very noticeably around 26.72 for December and the market turned upward on Wall street and western buying and selling by some of the early sellers, who appeared to be influenced by a belief that the ruling of the foreign exchange and the stock market foreshadowed an early settlement of reparations. Prices made new highs for the day before this demand was supplied, with the advance was prompted by reports of a firm market for August shipment cotton in the southwest. Last prices were 29 to 25 points higher from the best under renewed liquidation.

SPOTS IN NEW YORK.—Cotton spot, steady; middling 30.20.

TREND UPWARD AT NEW ORLEANS.—New Orleans, August 14.—The cotton market, though fluctuating freely enough, showed generally an upward trend and at one time it was 1/2 point higher than 33 a bale above the closing levels of yesterday. Values showed an upward tendency due to active buying by large speculative interests as well as to the report that the Germans had agreed to the French terms for the evacuation of the Ruhr. Owing to Liverpool coming in much better than due, the local market opened higher and within a short time the opening October traded as high as 26.85 and December at 26.90 or 40 to 45 points above yesterday's close. Later in the morning, when the official reports had been received, the rains, prices eased off to 26.43 for October and 26.48 for December, or 42 to 44 points down from the initial high and within a few minutes of the previous close. The afternoon rally on the Ruhr report carried all active months to new high levels for the day with October at 27.03 and December at 27.05, or 62 to 63 points above the previous close. Some of this gain was lost in the late trading and the close showed net gains for the day of 35 to 40 points.

The census bureau's report showing consumption by American mills in July of 346,671 bales of lint cotton against 452,054 last year had little or no influence on the market as a small total had been anticipated.

MAYOR SIMS OUTLINES ADMINISTRATION WORK

Accomplishments of the present city administration were reviewed in a tabloid by Mayor Walter Sims in an address Thursday to 400 members of the Junior Chamber of Commerce at the regular weekly luncheon of the organization.

"This administration took charge of civic affairs in January of 1923 with more than $500,000 of unpaid bills accumulated between the previous September and the end of the year and faced an immediate increase of several hundred thousand dollars in fixed charges for interest and sinking fund on bonds which had been sold," the mayor stated.

"We were able to take care of all that unusual expense and wind up the first year with a clean sheet and with more public improvement accomplished than had been done in any year of the city's history," he said.

The mayor stressed the value of the economy program which he had inaugurated immediately on assuming the reins of office. Useless city employees were dropped from the pay rolls in June, of 1923, and other economies effected to enable the city to absorb its current expenses and those left unpaid by the previous administration.

The mayor also reviewed his fight for a loan of sufficient money to tide the public schools over the deficiency which threatened to force them to close in mid-term this fall. He finally obtained the loan, on endorsement of nearly 50 leading Atlanta business men, which will prevent schools closing and has made it unnecessary to ask for an emergency tax levy for the purpose.

REV. FAUST TO PREACH IN ATLANTA SUNDAY

Rev. W. H. Faust, pastor of the Gordon Street Baptist church, will occupy the pulpit there Sunday after conducting a series of evangelistic meetings at the New Baptist church in Oglethorpe county. He will preach on "Christian Patriotism" at the 11 o'clock service. The Associated Men's Bible Classes of West End will have charge of the evening services.

DIRIGIBLE TO TAKE PART IN MANEUVERS

Lakehurst, N. J., August 14.—The dirigible Shenandoah tonight was made fast to her mooring mast preparatory for departure at noon tomorrow for maneuvers off the New England coast with the Atlantic squadron of the United States navy. The big ship, when she leaves the naval air station, will put out to sea and will not return until Sunday night at the earliest. This, in point of time, will be the longest of her trial flights.

During the maneuvers, the Shenandoah will be sent approximately 100 miles beyond a line of destroyers to spy upon an imaginary enemy.

PREACHER-RAIDER SUED FOR $25,000

Knoxville, Tenn., August 14.—Rev. C. W. Gant, preacher-raider of Knox county, and O. W. Hill, deputy prohibition enforcement officer, were named as defendants in suit for $25,000 damages filed in circuit court today by the widow of Anderson Green, killed in a machine raid in Jefferson county last September.

Gant was tried in United States district court several months ago on a charge of murdering Green and was acquitted. Hill, during the trial of Gant, testified that he was the man who pursued Green during the raid and fired several shots in the direction of Green.

DR. LOUIS ARNESBURG ELECTED D. A. R. HEAD

Boston, August 14.—Dr. Louis Arnesburg, of Uniontown, Pa., today was elected commander-in-chief of the Grand Army of the Republic by the encampment in session here.

Grand Rapids, Mich., was selected as next year's meeting place at the 58th annual encampment. The central location of Michigan was said to have aided in its choice.

Bank Bandits Get $20,000.

July 13, August 14.—Six unmasked bandits held up the First National Bank of Lockport near here today and, after herding the officers and employees of the bank into the vault on their hands and knees, forced the cashier, A. P. Dailey, to fill a sack with silver and paper money in the safe, while the remainder of the gang ransacked the till and cash drawers. The bandits escaped with $20,000 in currency.

Women To Hear Ten Candidates For Lower House

All candidates for the three Fulton county seats in the general assembly and for state senator from this district are to address a rally of the League of Women Voters to be held in the chamber of commerce at 3 o'clock this afternoon, it was announced Thursday by Mrs. Sanford Gay, president.

The candidates invited to address the meeting are J. O. Wood and Bessie Kempton, who are seeking reelection; Alderman William B. Hartfield, Wayne Allen, Luther Still, Eugene Dickey, Channing Cope, Mr. Brooks, Frank Hooper, Mrs. E. N. Gibbs, all candidates for the lower house, and Walter Hendrix, candidate for the state senate.

The rally is one of a series arranged by the League of Women Voters to continue until the city primary September 26. The meetings this week are to be open only to candidates subject to the state and county primary September 10. Later in the campaign it is planned to hold meetings at which candidates for city offices will speak. The league has perfected arrangements for a traveling registration booth for voters which is to be sent out next week in charge of members of the league and official city registrars to make it convenient for housewives and others to register in their own neighborhoods without the necessity of going to city hall to register.

CITY REGISTRATION NCW TOTALS 16,872

City registration had reached a total of 16,872, about normal for the day in relation to the date of the municipal primary, it was announced Thursday by Walter Taylor, city clerk.

Voters may register at the city hall for the city democratic white primary at any time up to August 24. Under a new ordinance which became effective this year, registration at the county court house no longer qualifies a citizen to vote in both city and county elections.

Mr. Taylor said that he expected the traveling registration booth, to be sent around the city beginning Monday under auspices of the League of Women Voters, to increase the registration totals substantially.

A. M. E. LEAGUE HOLDS SESSION IN ATLANTA

Reports read Thursday at the meeting of the district conference Sunday school and Epworth league of the A. M. E. church show that conditions in the district are in fine condition. The meeting, which is in session at the First Street A. M. E. church, opened Wednesday and will close Sunday.

Rev. J. F. Dorsey, pastor of the Fort Street church, and members of that church are in charge of the program.

In all of the city of Lisbon, Portugal, there are only six electric signs.

J. Louis Morrison Heads Big Ad Firm Branch in Atlanta

Announcement of the opening of an Atlanta branch of the nationally known Perry-Hanley Advertising firm, with J. Louis Morrison, popular and well-known young business man, in charge, was made Thursday afternoon, following several days of preparation for opening the new office. The branch will be located at suite 614 of the Glenn building and will be the keypoint of the activities of the company over the entire south.

W. J. Perry and C. P. Hanley, Chicago heads of the company, visited Atlanta Thursday and announced the appointment of Mr. Morrison as the Atlanta head of the organization. The company handles advertising contracts for hundreds of companies over the United States dealing in nationally advertised products. The Atlanta office is the fifth of the group operated by the Perry-Hanley company, the other offices being located in Kansas City, Chicago, New Orleans and Rock Island.

Atlanta was selected as the southern base, Mr. Hanley declared Thursday night, because it is the keypoint for the advertising business for the southeast. Atlanta, he said, offered greater possibilities than any other southern city.

Mr. Morrison is a graduate of the University of Georgia and has hundreds of friends over the entire southeast. He has been engaged in the advertising business here for several years, making a remarkable success.

Both heads of the firm are former newspaper men.

LABOR COMMITTEE NOTIFIES LA FOLLETTE

Washington, August 14.—Officially notifying Senator La Follette of the endorsement given his presidential candidacy by the American Federation of Labor's executive council, a committee headed by Frank Morrison, secretary of the federation, declared today that "every honorable effort" would be exerted to bring about the election of the independent candidates.

"We are instructed to say to you for President Gompers," Mr. Morrison told Senator La Follette, "that we are for you and for Senator Wheeler, that we are for you without restriction and that so far as the 1924 presidential tickets and platforms of the two old parties are concerned, we have burned our bridges. The fight is on."

"Our examination of the platform has shown us beyond question that both the republican and democratic platforms are unacceptable—a word, by the way, that seems not to be clearly understood in some quarters, we hope to make it better understood as time passes."

"What applies to platforms applies to candidates. We find in either case no hope for the wage earners of the country. We find the candidates of both parties wholly unacceptable."

"As our report makes clear, we have found the platform upon which you are a candidate for president and upon which Senator Wheeler is a candidate for vice president is more acceptable to labor, more nearly meets the needs of the great masses of people of our country and in par-

$1,000,000 ICE PLANT FOR MIDDLE GEORGIA

Macon, Ga., August 14.—(Special.) The most elaborate icing plant in the United States will be built in middle Georgia to accommodate the needs of peach growers at a cost of $1,000,000, it was announced here tonight.

The new plant will be constructed of concrete with electrically controlled conveyors and other modern equipment. In addition trackage facilities extended to enable railroads to handle with speed all trains for icing will be provided.

H. D. Pollard, general manager of the Central of Georgia railway, tonight said the Central's engineers are making a number of surveys in middle Georgia for the location of the big plant.

There are five sites under consideration, he said, the first being west of Macon, at what is known as Tern Cotta, where the Central now has trackage facilities for 600 cars; the second is in the vicinity of Ohio station, four and a half miles east of Fort Valley; the third is nearer to Fort Valley; the fourth is west of Fort Valley on the Columbus division, and the fifth is west of Fort Valley on the Albany division.

Turner County Forms Big Credit Corporation To Assist Farmers

Ashburn, Ga., August 14.—(Special.)—Immediate organization of an agricultural credit corporation with headquarters at Ashburn was determined at a mass meeting of Turner county farmers, bankers and business men held at the court house here today following an address by J. D. Bell, manager of the Federal Intermediate Credit Bank of Columbia, S. C. A large block of the $25,000 capital stock was subscribed by leading farmers and the balance was underwritten by a committee of Turner county bankers and business men, of which Dr. G. C. McKenzie was elected chairman, and Colonel E. A. Rogers, secretary.

The corporation is expected to be in operation by October, when funds will be available for the purchase of dairy cows and other live stock. Terms of purchase and payment in three years at 7 per cent interest. The corporation will chiefly finance live stock loans in accordance with plans worked out by the Georgia association, which is sponsoring the movement in Georgia as a part of its plan to promote a cash system of farming through a live stock program.

A feature of the meeting was the election by unanimous vote of Mrs. Nora Lawrence Smith, managing editor of The Wire Grass Farmer, as director of the Georgia association from Turner county. The county has just renewed its membership in the Georgia association.

County Agent H. B. Ralls presided at the meeting.

MINERS AND COMPANY COME TO AGREEMENT

Chattanooga, Tenn., August 14.—Announcement was made by the Durham Coal & Iron Co. here today that an agreement had been reached with mine workers, and that its mine at Soddy, Tenn., would resume operations about August 25. It is understood that concessions were made by both sides, and that a combination of provisions of the 1917 and 1920 wage scales was agreed upon. The mine employs about 500 men and is one of the largest in this territory.

"Atlanta's Own" Regiment Leaves Sunday for Camp

Four special trains, scheduled to leave Atlanta during Sunday afternoon, will carry more than 700 officers and men of the 122d regiment, Georgia national guard, "Atlanta's Own," to St. Simon island for the annual encampment for two weeks, according to announcement Thursday.

A parade through the downtown streets of the city, en route from the armory to the Terminal station, will precede entrainment and, incidentally, mark the first appearance of the first and second battalions since organization early in the spring. Two trains will be routed over Southern railway tracks to Brunswick, and two trains will run over A. B. & A. tracks, the troops arriving early Monday morning in Brunswick. Detachment will be in order and dispatch of troops and supplies to St. Simon island will get under way in sufficient time, it is now thought by officers, to have the camp "set up" and the regiment functioning not later than noon Monday. The third battalion, divided in companies among nearby cities, including Cedartown, Calhoun and Elberton, will join first and second battalion troops here.

According to a recent order issued by the adjutant general of the state, the St. Simon camp this year has been designated as "Camp Nash" in honor of the late Adjutant General Van Holt Nash. Final Details Arranged. Colonel Charles H. Cox, commanding officer of the 122d infantry regiment, and adjutant general of Georgia, stated Thursday that final details for the camp have been made, and officers and men were marking time pending the arrival of the hour for departure. "The regiment, organized last March, is working smoothly and officers and men, a great number of whom have not attended any previous national guard camp, are taking their camp plans seriously and with great interest in every matter connected with the annual two weeks training, and are working very much like veteran soldiers," he said. Lieutenant Colonel Eugene Oberdorfer, executive officer of the regiment, has devoted practically all his time for the past month to camp arrangements, with the result that no hitch has appeared and every detail of entrainment and preliminary preparation has been made, according to Colonel Cox. The commanding officer highly praised Colonel Oberdorfer and other officers of the regiment who have been assisting in special work in connection with plans for the camp, in a statement Thursday night.

Colonel J. M. Kimbrough, Jr., senior instructor for national guard troops in this area, assisted by Captain R. E. Ennis and other regular army officers assigned for training duties with guard troops, were enthusiastic Thursday over preparations for the camp and expressed belief that despite the "newness" of many men and the lack of experience in army work, the regiment will be in camp in record time.

Schedule Approved. The training schedule, one of the most intensive ever mapped out for a Georgia national guard organization, drew hearty approval of the instructors. The schedule is the work of Colonel Oberdorfer, Captain Ennis, Colonel Cox, and other regular army officers assigned for training duties with guard troops. VITAL FACTS FOR WOMEN

Sooner or later almost every woman is brought face to face with the fact that she is a victim of some weakness or ailment peculiar to her sex. It may be the young woman suffering from pain or irregularities, a mother who has brought on some weakness or dis-most critical period of her life. For each of these trying periods Lydia E.

in every town and city in the country who testify to its value.—(adv.)

SLAMS AND SLAMS

By Louise Dooly.

Isn't it funny how good men love to tease themselves about being wicked?

The Frenchman would probably explain that it was the good man's way of drowning the thought of their inhibitions.

WHY GIRLS GO TO COLLEGE.

WHAT is a college education for? What does the college student expect to get out of college?

What does he think it is going to mean to him in after life?

The problem has been talked and written about, always with special attention given to it of recent times, because of the crowding of the methods employed in consequence to limit the number of the student body girls.

One day we heard a discussion of the same problem as it concerns this, we thought, was interesting. More especially because it implied that there is now more than one reason why girls go to college.

It used to be that few girls in the south had such ambition, and with those who had, there was only one motive—the obvious one of the higher education.

We all know that there are several motives that lead boys to college.

One is that their parents desire or require it of them.

A second is that "all the other fellows I know are going."

A third is that a degree is an essential thing in entering certain professions which may be the goal of the student; and a valuable thing in certain lines of business.

Then there is the common knowledge that college life holds a lot of fun. That it usually forms happy friendships.

And finally that it is a good place in which to secure learning on its own account. The last, probably the least frequent motive.

But college for girls. Now that's a different matter.

And what do you think the mother was saying who started the conversation aforesaid?

Why, a significant thing, which other mothers might be interested in who have daughters now in camp, perhaps, or storing up fresh energy in the mountains or on the seashore for the study they must renew somewhere before many weeks are over.

WHAT COLLEGE OFFERS GIRLS. I've done a good deal of thinking," this mother began, "and some surprising of college opportunities for my girl."

"As far as I can see now, there will be no actual necessity for her to earn a living. Her father can provide for her nicely, but like all sensible parents we want her ready to take care of herself in case the necessity should arise."

"It is not important that she should crowd herself, however, in her college years," and here this mother made her first significant statement:

"I want her to get the best out of her college life, and that, to my mind, means the best it can offer in educational opportunity as well as in educational opportunity."

"The years of a girl's college life are the first years of her young ladyhood, as a rule, and so I want my daughter to enjoy, at the same time with her studies, the normal diversions of a young girl with other girls and with boys."

SACRIFICING THE STUDENT. "THE thing which I found is most to be avoided in the college for college," she continued—and in this lies the second striking suggestion—is the possible choice of an institution which maintains its 'A' standard among colleges of the highest scholastic rating, that the best interests of the girls are sacrificed."

"Girls are admitted who are not prepared for this advanced work. The college has to admit them. It cannot be too exacting about admission standards because it needs the support of a large student body."

"The girls, poorly prepared, thus find college a continuous grind. There is little time or heart for any life besides."

"To my mind, therefore, the desirable thing is a thorough preparation for college and then the choice of an institution so well established in its collegiate standing that it has all the applications it can handle from students who can unquestionably 'make the grade.'"

"Or a school which provides liberal and useful courses of study looking to the girl's thorough equipment in some particular line; or to a general education which may point her tendencies in some particular line, leading later perhaps to specialization."

"In any of these cases, the student would have the opportunity for normal enjoyment; in the first case, because she would be so well prepared that even a degree would not be a struggle, and in the others because the goal, while in my opinion worth while, would not require that the girl be a bookworm or that she risk nervous prostration, while her pride struggled with her lack of preparation."

Now don't you think that mother is sensible?

SHE MISSED FIRE. ENGLAND is offering a new "profession" for women in the job of motorcycle mannequin.

Sometimes she is advertising the machine. Sometimes it is the clothes suitable for the machine, for motorcycle is a fad at present with many Englishwomen.

Whenever we read of such an opening for women we think of the indignation of the highly educated, dignified woman, with all of this in her appearance and manner, who met with unexpected reverses, and at a time when employment was hard to get, applied at a "vocational bureau" for advice.

The "expert" in charge looked at the applicant indifferently and then said, "Why don't you raise blooded dogs? You could even stay at home and do that."

The "expert" probably does not understand yet why the applicant turned white in the face and left her apartment, a very curt, "Thanks, Good morning."

WE FAVOR MONOPOLIES. BROADCASTING stations everywhere are announcing iron clamps to limit the length of political speeches sent out from these stations, and their character; speakers may broadcast freely what they and their party stand for, but they may not revile other candidates and other parties.

We are in favor of turning all political campaigns over to the radio business.

If they can check abusive speech and the length of political orations, then maybe more citizens will be willing to give some attention to politics.

"I don't mind waking up," said the father of two young lady daughters, "to let my family in after dances, but I do object to staying awake until it is late enough to go out to them."

Prominent Atlanta Women Take Part in School Campaign

Mrs. John A. Boykin, on the left, and Mrs. James W. Austin, who are taking an active part in the Atlanta Federation of Women's Club campaign for a building fund for Tallulah Falls school, the vocational school owned and directed by the Georgia Federation of Women's Clubs.

Mrs. William D. Ellis, Jr., and her brother, Dufferin Lipscomb, made individual gifts of $1,000 to the Tallulah Falls Industrial school on Thursday. These gifts were made in the memory of their mother, the late Mrs. Mary Ann Lipscomb, of Athens.

Frank Lipscomb, of Athens, brother of Mrs. Ellis and Mrs. Lipscomb, has already subscribed $3,000 in memory of his mother, but this subscription will go to the state fund being raised for the school and will not be included in Atlanta's quota of $20,000.

A great "get-together" meeting of all leaders and workers in the campaign has been called for noon Friday in the town hall of the chamber of commerce.

This meeting is to bring together all the women who have been canvassing the city so that a complete report as to the actual amount pledged can be made.

Mrs. T. Stevens, president of the Atlanta Federation of Women's Clubs and general chairman of the drive, will preside.

"We know that many of the workers here have not made their reports yet," Mrs. Stevens said, "and it is to give them and us a chance to find out exactly what has been accomplished that the meeting has been called.

"Many workers have left cards and it is our wish that these cards be collected by Friday and brought to the meeting."

Mrs. Stevens said that the success of the campaign thus far had been most important. It is running up to see Mr. Hollister tomorrow and it is his request that I ask you to accompany me. He wishes me to express to you my regret at putting you to the inconvenience of the trip; but he is unable, as you know, to get about yet, and he feels that there are matters which should be discussed without further postponement.

The little hurt in Marjorie's heart was like a stab of pain now. Her eyes blurred a little, but she heard her voice answering calmly that she would be ready when he called for her the following morning.

She had barely hung the receiver back on the hook, when the door of the sitting room opened without ceremony, and Mrs. Boice-Nevis hurried in. Despite the earliness of the hour and the haste with which she must have hurried, she was looking superb. Her modish street frock, the chic little hat and veil, the smart furs, and immaculate gloves—never more like the Dresden china figure!

"My dear," her soft, pretty voice was never so caressing. She went to Boice-Nevis and put her arms around his neck and drew his face down to hers.

"I've missed you so, by dear!" her half sob was a triumph of histrionics. "Charlotte!" All the hunger of a lonely heart, suddenly glimpsing heaven, went into the husky whisper.

Marjorie turned her back upon them, dumb with sheer amazement. Half an hour later, while Boice-Nevis was directing the forwarding of his luggage to Soundview, her mother slipped an envelope into Marjorie's gloved hand.

"Drop that in the box for me, will you, darling?" she requested, with one eye on her husband's back. "I wrote it coming in the car."

Unconsciously, Marjorie's eyes fell on the superscription. The letter was addressed to "Jasper Drain, Esq., Union League club, N. Y."

"I told him I'd change my mind," her mother whispered gayly. "After all, he's not worth much over a million, and—" her eyes wandered significantly in her husband's direction.

In the afternoon of the following day, Marjorie stood once more on the terrace of Hollister's mountain paradise, overlooking the deep, spreading valley, flaming in autumn splendor.

The lawyer, who had preceded her into the house, came out, his interview concluded.

"I'll wait for you in the warden," Mrs. Hollister, he told her, and then a nurse came to conduct her into Hollister's presence.

(Copyright, 1924, for The Constitution.)

"Dad," an excited, eager-eyed girl flung herself into Boice-Nevis' arms in the open doorway of a private suite at the Biltmore, oblivious of curious stares from passersby in the corridor.

"My girl! My little Marjorie!" there was hushiness in his voice.

"Oh, dad, how we've missed you!" she detached herself, half laughing, half crying, and closed the door of the sitting room behind her. "Why didn't you let us know? I only saw the papers this morning."

He laughed nervously. "I wasn't sure of my welcome," he admitted shamefacedly.

"Welcome!" she caught him up. "Oh, dad, when I've been so lonely!" His eyes searched her face anxiously.

"But you're happy, child? You've married the finest chap in the world. It was very happy when I learned of it. At first, I was afraid—" he hesitated, "that perhaps Hollister's money—"

She refused to meet his eyes, but she laughed merrily enough. "Oh, dad, don't be silly."

"One of the ship news reporters told me that Hollister is just recovering from an operation that makes him a well man again—you see, the news of his misfortune even reached Rio—why aren't you with him, Marjorie?"

She hesitated, confused. She didn't want to spoil his homecoming. Time enough for that when he had heard the terrible thing her mother had to tell about her own divorce and contemplated remarriage. Or wouldn't he care? Had, perhaps, his last lingering spark of affection for her mother been snuffed out by the black night three years ago when she had sent him away, broken and ruined and alone, to South America, lest his presence as a living failure humiliate her?

But about Hollister—"I'm joining him tomorrow, dad," she lied quickly. "Now, don't talk about me. Tell me about yourself."

For the first time, she had a good opportunity to look at him closely. Her heart contracted at the signs of suffering in his face. He was indeed grey and old, and broken now. South America had taken its toll of him. But there was a triumphant gleam in his eyes, an erectness of his head which told of success won at heavy cost, but none the less definitely won.

He questioned her about home affairs, listening eagerly to gossip about Julie and Lella and Dan, ears hungry for familiar names after hearing strange ones for three lonely years.

They both knew the moment was coming when he would ask about her mother, and they both instinctively postponed it.

"You haven't asked yet, Marjorie, if it's true that I retrieved all the fortune I lost," he suggested wistfully.

"Dad!" she cried reproachfully. "I wouldn't care if you came home a pauper, so long as you came at all."

He pressed her hand gratefully. "Well, it is true. In fact, I'm worth more now than when I crashed. Then with a smile that was a little wane, "I hope it will please your mother."

The moment had come. Must she

APPROVE WIDENING OF JUNIPER STREET

Juniper street between North avenue and Ponce de Leon is to be widened from 60 feet to 80 feet under terms of an ordinance approved by the ordinance committee of city council Thursday. It will go to council for approval Monday. The ordinance establishes a new building line, but will not provide for making the change at any specific time.

Members of the committee stated that the Juniper widening is in no way connected with the other project for extending Courtland to Ponce de Leon. That improvement has been postponed until the time when the city has sufficient funds to make it.

BONNIE ROWE BETTER, SAY GRADY DOCTORS. Slight improvement was noted by Grady doctors Thursday in the condition of Bonnie G. Rowe, "dare-devil" of the air, who attempted suicide in a downtown hotel Wednesday night by cutting the arteries in his left wrist and taking bichloride of mercury. His chances for recovery are considered excellent.

Financial reverses are given as the reason for Rowe's despondency. He was in a badly weakened condition from the loss of blood when found in his room.

Macon, Ga., August 14.—(Special.) Dr. Walter P. Rushin, for 36 years a practicing physician, died at his home here today after a long illness. Dr. Rushin was born and reared in Thomas county. He came to Macon from Albany 19 years ago.

Surviving are his widow, Mrs. S. A. Rushin; a brother, J. Bostwick Rushin, New York city; a sister, Ona J. Rushin; four sons, P. Roy Rushin, Shanghai, China, where he has been a missionary for ten years; C. A. Rushin and W. Clifford Rushin, of Macon, and Malcolm D. Rushin, of Miami, Fla., and three daughters, Mrs. Grace Hatcher, Miss Lue Rushin and Miss Sarah Rushin, of Macon. Funeral services will be held tomorrow.

GRIFFIN IS AWARDED PAIR OF BUFFALOES

Griffin has been awarded a pair of buffaloes for its zoo, but they cannot be captured until the fall, says a telegram today to Senator W. J. Harris, from Dr. Hubert Work, secretary of the interior, in reply to a request from the Georgia senator in behalf of city officials of Griffin. The government has a surplus at Yellowstone National Park and they are presenting two to the city of Griffin with the only provision that the city pay the expenses of shipping.

MAXSON FRANK JUREL

VERSES AND REVERSES.

By Samuel Hoffenstein.

Our cat he keeps, while mortals fuss,
Perpetual tryst with Morph-e-us;
While we perspire and labor, he Stretches in feline luxury,
Troubling no whit his furry head
About the uses of his bed.
I've seen him, and subdued my curses,
Loll lazily upon my verses,
Proving, a mind that's analytic
Is not essential to a critic—
Well, anyhow, his pleasant time
Imperially o'ertops my rhyme;
He knows, as mortal men do not,
The uses of a sunny spot,
Where I have seen him brush his dome
With his own natural cat-a-comb,
Nor seem to give a catty care
Who rules the ocean or the air,
Nevertheless, I argue that I do not want to be a cat.
Hunt mice, and paw an empty head,
And die nine times before I'm dead.

No Rest.

—Isaac Anderson.

"Now that you have inherited all that money, I presume you will take life easy."
"I'm afraid not. My wife wants to get into society."
—Isaac Anderson.

The Whip Hand.

—Robert H. Witt.

"That a bright boy of yours, old man?"
"He's all of that. I wish I could manage his mother half as well as he can."
—Robert H. Witt.

Out of Stock.

Grace: "Bertha seems to have a very poor color today."
Stella: "Yes, poor dear. You can't imagine the trouble she's having trying to get her favorite rouge."
—Gertrude Heller.

A MEWSICAL PARTY.

Sarcasm?
Mrs. Hale: "Henry, dear, I'm going to the beauty specialist's this afternoon. Could you let me have twenty dollars?"
Hale: "Hum! Twenty dollars!
Do you think that will be enough?"
—Sigmond Baehr.

He's Earned It.
"Young man," roared the boss angrily, "you're fired. Your infernal carelessness in drawing up our contract with the Smith-Jones company has cost this firm $10,000."
"Would you mind giving me a signed statement to that effect, sir?"
asked the culprit timidly.
"What do you want a signed statement for?"
"I'm going to see if I can't collect a commission from the Smith-Jones people."
Felix F. Felst.

All of us are as lazy as our circumstances will permit.

Wild Willies.
Willie, with pa's zolting sticks,
Practiced several wicked licks.
"These are much too long," said he,
So he shortened two or three.

Etiquette.
If you find an open letter
Which you think is not for you,
Still, it may be, so its better
To make sure and read it through.
—George S. Chappell.

A Query.
Ten-year-old Frances lives in a city

now, but she still remembers the time when, as a child of five, she lived with her parents in a lonely spot in Canada.

Wild animals were frequently seen about their cabin home. One night the child and her mother were all alone, Frances' father having gone on business to the nearest town. The child had been put to bed at her usual time, but for some reason sleep was slow to visit her pillow. She called to her mother.

"When I'm all alone in the dark, mother, I got to thinking about wolves and coyotes and things, and I get afraid."
"But, darling," soothed mother,
"don't you know that God is always watching, and He wouldn't let anything hurt you?"
Frances snuggled closer to her mother as she suggested, in a terrified whisper: "But mother, 'spose something should happen to God?"
—Mrs. Ida Jo Young.

The Brute!

—Edward Ross.

A woman's voice, shrill and high-pitched, rent the quiet night air. It was a cry for help; and it acted on me like an electric shock. Quickly, yet silently, I jumped over the garden gate.

Again the cry, this time more piercing. I glanced back, apprehensively, toward the house. Then I increased my stride in the opposite direction, toward town and the movies.

This was one time my wife would have to entertain her unpleasant lady callers without me.
—Edward Ross.

Don't cry, little lot, don't cry.
You'll be a filling station, by and by.

BY JACK LONDON

Inside the cabin the two men had just gone to bed.
"He's gone off his food again,"
Matt remarked from his bunk.
There was a grunt from Weedon
Scott's bunk, and a stir of blankets.
"From the way he cut up the other time you went away, I wouldn't wonder this time but what he died."

and restlessness were even more pronounced. He dogged his master's heels whenever he left the cabin, and haunted the front stoop when he remained inside. Through the open door he could catch glimpses of the luggage on the floor. The grip had been joined by two large canvas bags and a box. Matt was rolling the master's blankets and fur robe inside a small tarpaulin. White Fang whined as he watched the operation.

Later on, two Indians arrived. He watched them closely as they shouldered the luggage and were led off down the hill by Matt, who carried the bedding and the grip. But White Fang did not follow them. The master was still in the cabin. After a time, Matt returned. The master came to the door and called White Fang inside.

"You poor devil," he said gently, rubbing White Fang's ears and tapping his spine. "I'm hitting the long trail, old man, where you cannot follow. Now give me a growl—the last, good, good-by growl."
But White Fang refused to growl.
Instead, after a wistful, searching look, he snuggled in, burrowing his head out of sight between the master's arm and body.
"There she blows!" Matt cried.
From the Yukon arose the hoarse bel-lowing of a river steamboat. "You've got to cut it short. Be sure and lock the front door. I'll go out the back. Get a move on!"
The two doors slammed at the same moment, and Weedon Scott waited for Matt to come around to the front.
From inside the door came a low whining and sobbing. Then there were long, deep-drawn sniffs.
"You must take good care of him, Matt," Scott said, as they started down the hill. "Write and let me know how he gets along."
"Sure," the dog-musher answered.
"But listen to that, will you?"
Both men stopped. White Fang was howling as dogs howl when their masters lie dead. He was voicing an utter woe, his cry bursting upward in great, heart-breaking rushes, dying down into quivering misery, and bursting upward again with rush upon rush of grief.
The Aurora was the first steamboat of the year for the outside, and her decks were jammed with prosperous adventurers and broken gold seekers, all equally as mad to get to the outside as they had been originally to get to the inside. Near the gangplank, Scott was shaking hands with Matt, who was preparing to go ashore. But Matt's hand went limp in the other's grasp as his gaze shot past and remained fixed on something behind him. Scott turned to see. Sitting on the deck several feet away and watching wistfully was White Fang.
The dog-musher swore softly, in awe-stricken accents. Scott could only look in wonder.
"Did you lock the front door?"
Matt demanded.

The other nodded, and asked, "How about the back?"
"You just bet I did," was the fervent reply.
White Fang flattened his ears in-gratingly, but remained where he was, making no attempt to approach.
"I'll have to take 'm ashore with me."
Matt made a couple of steps toward White Fang, but the latter slid away from him. The dog-musher made a rush of it, and White Fang dodged between the legs of a group of men.
Ducking, turning, doubling, he slid about the deck, eluding the other's efforts to capture him.
But when the love-master spoke,
White Fang came to him with prompt obedience.

"Won't come to the hand that's fed
'm all these months," the dog-musher muttered resentfully. "And you—you ain't never fed 'm after them first days of gettin' acquainted. I'm blamed if I can see how he works it out that you're the boss."
Scott, who had been patting White Fang, suddenly bent closer and pointed out fresh-made cuts on his muzzle, and a gash between his eyes.
Matt bent over and passed his hand along White Fang's belly.
"We plumb forgot the window.
He's all cut an' gouged underneath.
Must 'a' butted clean through it, b'gosh!"

Forty-two of these schools have been conducted in 32 states, Mrs. Bannister said, which include in their three-day course instructions in speaking as well as in general campaign organization. In addition, correspondence courses have been given by Mrs. Wilson.

The appointment of Dr. William Cuno, former German chancellor, to succeed him is generally expected.
